Republican State Ticket.

FOR STATE TREASURER,

MATTHEW S. QUAY.

EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

ISMAIL PASHA is again to be made Khedive of Egypt.

THE Genesta and Puritan seem to be afraid of each other.

SOME of our contemporaries are already making Presidential tickets for '88.' Please put it off another year.

WE don't want Thank giving day to occur in October. Turkeys and mince pies taste much better in November.

THE Baltimore and Ohio R. R. propose to build a new South Penn, but who will build a new Beech Creek R. R.?

OF course this is the Democratic Day, but every citizen is disgusted with it and will kick it aside for the sake of Quay.

GALUSHA A. GROW has come out strongly for Col. Quay, and asks for him the united Republican vote. He has heard of no disaffection, and think there should be none.

NO TRUE Republican will neglect paying his State and County tax before October 3, for if he does neglect it he may not be able to vote.

NEW YORKERS are rich, but they always find it difficult to "raise the wind." It took them a week to raise enough of it to sail the Puritan and Genesta.

MISS ADA C. SWEET, the lovely young pension agent at Chicago, has been succeeded by a woman named Mulligan. Just think of it! A Sweet succeeded by a Mulligan! But that is Democracy.

CONGRESSMAN ERMENTROUT remarked the other day that "Col. Quay is the incarnation of all that fell in the downfall of Blaine." The people of Pennsylvania are willing to accept him as such.

PLENTY of Democrats are disgusted with everything Democratic, and it only remains to get out the party vote this fall and the effect will be electrifying to the hearts of Republicans everywhere.

IF there is any Republican who has not paid a State and County tax within two years, let him do so at once. If he is not able to pay, he should inform some Republican friend of the fact and his tax will be paid. Pay your tax and secure your receipt before October 3.

A MALICIOUS blatherskite named Chadwick, who lives in Media, is circulating a pamphlet containing charges derogatory to Colonel Quay, Republican candidate for State Treasurer. Every charge in the pamphlet was long ago contradicted and proved to be a libel. It is only necessary to warn our readers.

A NEW form of abuse is now aimed at Col. Quay, the Republican candidate for State Treasurer. It is to denounce him as "the incarnation of all that fell in the downfall of Blaine." This is the language of Congressman Ermentrout before the Berks County Convention. Republicans will accept the issue as stated, and recall the fact when Quay is elected.

IN Chatam county, Ga., in which Savannah is located, there is only one voting place, being in the city of Savannah. There are 12,000 voters in the county, 7,000 of whom are colored and 5,000 white. Some of the voters must travel 20 miles to vote, and the colored voters, who live far away, are very poor and unable to make the journey. This is the way Republican voters are disfranchised down there.

Barbiere and the "Watchman."

The Watchman, in its issue of Aug. 21, has almost a column of abuse of the Grand Army of the Republic because that organization of old soldiers who have shown their love of the republic and their devotion to its flag by offering their lives on the altar of their country, did enter its protest against the appointment to office of one Col. Barbiere, who was not only a rebel while war was going on, but a rebel of such bitterness that years after the war was over and honorable and decent southerners had made up their minds to abide by the result of the contest, he wrote a book in which he expressed the vilest rebel sentiments and showed the meanest kind of venom against the government and the people of the North, declaring himself not only to have been a rebel but to be still a traitor of the meanest stamp. It is such men as these that the Watchman loves to defend. Had Barbiere been a Union soldier it is doubtful if that paper would, under any circumstances, have gone out of its way to defend him, but he was a rebel, therefore the Watchman loves him tenderly. It says: "Why did not the G. A. R. protest against the appointment of Longstreet, Key, Ackerman and young Semms, son of the confederate admiral?" That question, of course, is easily answered. When the war was over these men ceased to be rebels, accepted the result and urged their followers now that they were conquered to join with the loyal North and, like honest men, become quiet citizens, orderly and true. "Let us now have peace," was their motto. Let us restore our desolate homes and cultivate the arts of peace. Had they sulked for years and finally, long after the contest was ended, written a book full of treason, an insult to every loyal American, then the Grand Army would have protested, and they would have been recreant to their duty as loyal and true citizens of the republic had they failed to protest against the elevation of such men to positions of honor and trust. It was the duty of every loyal man to protest against the appointment of Barbiere to any position within the gift of the government no matter what his political views might be. The Watchman insinuates that this action of the G. A. R. marks them as being a political organization. Nothing of the kind, as men of both political parties acted together in the matter, and men of all political parties compose the G. A. R. What folly then to say it is a political organization. But such contemptable lies need no refutation. Thousands of Democrats as well as Republicans (members of this band of our old defenders) know there is not a particle of truth in such a charge. Nor because Meek and Barbiere are rebels would it be right to assume that all Democrats are traitors. We thought that after the issue of 21st ult. the Watchman would rest quiet, but last week it had another shot at the G. A. R., in which it says that Gen. Davis appointed a man named Payne recommended by the Grand Army, that he

"found him lazy, worthless and a general dead-beat and swindler. He was so dishonest that he could not be trusted, and General Davis was forced to discharge him after a week's trial. So much for what the G. A. R. knows about filling offices. Col. Barbiere was an honest, intelligent, respectable man, if he was a "rebel," and he did his duty well and faithfully. We'd shut up from this out, if we were the G. A. R."

What a satisfaction it must have been to Meek to brand a union soldier as "lazy, worthless, a general dead-beat and swindler," and almost in same line to say the rebel Barbiere was "honest, intelligent and respectable." However, it goes for nothing, as the whole story is probably false. Certainly that part in relation to the G. A. R., for that organization never recommended Payne or anybody else to fill the vacant position. If any members of the G. A. R. did they only exercised a right every loyal citizen has, viz, the right of petition.

Protesting Against a Tariff Agitation.

The administration may judge of the effect of tariff agitation by the action of the convention of manufacturers of Rhode Island. Being asked by a Secretary of the Treasury to report in regard to desired changes of the tariff, they declare in speeches and resolutions that the current threats of a change of the tariff are a serious cause of commercial depression. They point to the fact that the circulars sent out imply that the administration seeks some change, and contemplates recommending to Congress a general overhauling of the tariff. The tone and the expression of these circulars imply that it is disposed to recommend changes in the direction of old-fashioned Democratic theories. The manufacturers resolve that this sort of thing does harm. They are unquestionably right, for all such agitation does harm; it deters buyers, because it gives the hope that a change of duties may presently bring lower prices, and it disheartens and discourages producers for the same reason. Yet the administration itself is agitating now, and Congress will agitate still more next winter. The Democratic majority will unquestionably be controlled in caucus by the same body of free traders which favored Mr. Morrison's blundering and mischievous bill last year. Whether the administration recommends anything or nothing, it is certain that the party majority will agitate. The fear of action by Congress, the fear of changes which cannot be anticipated, and for which neither manufacturers nor traders can make circulations, will inevitably disturb business until those fears have been completely removed. Both of the Senators of Rhode Island were present at the meeting of manufacturers, and both made memorable speeches against a renewal of the Tariff agitation.

We think we can suggest a practical way to check it and to prevent any ill-timed interruption of business revival which is long overdue and which ought not suffer interruption from any cause. Let all interests not only protest now, but make an open demand upon the U. S. Senate for a declaration that it will not consider any proposition looking to a reduction of the Tariff, and let all manufacturers strengthen their demand by giving increased majorities to the Republican tickets in New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Virginia. That done, and the Democratic House may fret and fume, but both it and the Administration will be powerless to injure.

Destructive Storms.

The tornado which occurred on Wednesday night in Ohio, resulting in the almost entire destruction of Washington Court House, a town of 4,000 population, was the most frightful of which we have ever heard. It was remarkable that a large part of the population was not killed. Only five persons were killed outright, while a dozen or more were severely injured and about three hundred received bruises of one kind or another. Some of the narratives of escape from injury or death are truly wonderful. For instance, when we are informed that the Odd Fellows Hall was blown down, burying beneath the walls thirty of the forty occupants, we cannot but be surprised to read that these occupants came creeping, almost unhurt, from the ruins. A special Providence seemed to have interfered in favor of Rev. John B. Steptoe, who, the account says, was returning from holding a meeting at the Baptist church. He had just reached the Catholic church when the tornado came. He ran into the tower for protection, and was praying with all his strength, when the Baptist church fell with a crash, and the main body of the Catholic church followed. Strange to say, however, all but the spire under which Steptoe was standing was demolished. It is amusing also to read that a boy who was sleeping upstairs in Mr. Hartman's house was carried by the wind and gently dropped on the ground without injury.

This storm, taken in connection with the destructive one in Philadelphia and Camden, the equally appalling one in Charleston, and others that were less terrible, renders it certain that the number and severity of such storms in the East are rapidly increasing, while they seem to be decreasing in number in the West. Perhaps they are only changing their base of operations.

What causes this change? Is it not the destruction of Eastern forests? Forests seem to have a great effect on storms, and the forests of the East are rapidly disappearing, while tree culture in the West is increasing. All kinds of trees, after they have been transplanted to the heretofore treeless West, grow much more luxuriantly than in the East. The only remedy seems to be to preserve the forests and plant new ones.

Washington Waifs.

WASHINGTON D. C. Sept 14, '85.

The return of the President has not been followed by the great rush of office seekers that was expected, but most of those who have come here recently are determined to be up and doing, and a few of the more aggressive, with the aid of those who remained during vacation, are determined to be heard, if not in the White House, on the platform and in the papers. A few of the more aggressive, who have been more desperate through long waiting, have called a meeting for to-morrow evening to discuss and adopt resolutions protesting against the Civil Service Law. The feeling amongst those who are still out in the cold is very bitter and pronounced against the law, and it's the veriest nonsense for interviewers and writers in Democratic and independent papers to assert that the active portion of the Democratic party are satisfied. The only satisfied Democrats here are the few who have succeeded in getting appointments and the few who don't want or expect any favors. Want of sympathy is the phrase now instead of "offensive partisan." General Rosecrans has asked for the resignation of several clerks in his department on the ground that they are not in sympathy with his mode of reform; but why didn't he say on the ground that they are Republicans and be honest about the matter?

It is curious to note the strategy that some of the old time clerks have resorted to in order to save their official heads. Besides procuring the indorsement of Democratic friends from home a great many stopped their Republican papers and have subscribed for Democratic journals which they are careful to have sent to their desks, and many of these desks are adorned with the pictures of Cleveland and Hendricks. It will readily be seen that under this system the honest and manly man is apt to go out while the dishonest hypocrite is retained.

The knowing ones have it settled that the President wont begin to write his message for six weeks, yet never was a message more anxiously watched for by the business men of the country. How it will treat the tariff and the silver question is the great concern. While the sports are watching the Puritan and Genesta the business men are watching the tariff to see whether England or America win a victory. LYNX.

THERE is a growing feeling in this country that the British press wants the earth. Their Presidential ticket was elected in this country last year, and a party was put in power which is hostile to the selfish American doctrine of protection to American industry, yet the British press growls because Vice President Hendricks says a good word that means nothing, for the Irish Nationalists. Are they not just a little greedy? Or does the contract between them and the American free traders, in their estimation, involve a complete surrender by the Democrats, of everything; even to personal freedom of speech—even, beguiling speech—like the vice President's?

A MARRIAGE license in Maryland costs $4.50.

Well Done, Good and Faithful Servant.

The figures prove that the losses under the last Republican administration averaged but one and eight-tenths mills to a thousand dollars. At the turning over of its twenty-four years trust to Democrat officials the money was counted and the books balanced and every penny was found on hand precisely as reported. Was there ever more substantial evidence of the unswerving integrity and faithfulness of public officials than the fact we have mentioned? It is a noticeable fact that since the counting up and handing over of the funds by the Republicans the cry of "Turn the rascals out," has been changed and now there comes gurgling up, "put the rascals in." One thing is very evident, the country is satisfied with the honor and fidelity of the party that battled for the Union, and if the election was to come off again this year of grace, 1885, we feel that we hazard nothing in saying that a Republican President would be unanimously chosen. The Democrats by their charges of dishonesty upon the Republicans have placed themselves in a position where the people will watch their acts narrowly and they will be held to a rigid accountability of their stewardship; anything short of the Republican record will not be satifactory, and it remains to be seen what a final accounting by Mr. Cleveland's administration will reveal.—Meadville Daily Tribune.

BRADSTREET's, in the recent issue, reports what is said by men connected with large manufacturing industries in the New England States regarding the promise of trade. They include a variety of manufactories, and all, with only one exception, report that because the supply of manufactured goods has become exhausted, the demand is sure to be large and that trade will correspondingly improve. We cannot enter into the bright expectations now so loudly and enthusiastically talked of. As nothing is now being done to improve trade it will not become any better.

Not the Day we Want.

Conrad B. Day
The people say
That you are false—
You give no light—
Your Day is night;
And just take note
That when they vote
They'll knock you high-
Er than a kite.

Oh, such a Day
Affords no ray
Of hope for those
Who suffer woes,
But dire distress
There'll surely be
If we give you
The treasury.

You belong to
A party which
Is struggling out
Of the last ditch.
No policy
It has to show;
What it would do
We do not know.

The national Administration
Is rapidly
Wrecking the Nation.
Think that we'll give
To you the rule
Of this great State?
We're not a fool.

You're flirting with
That maid, Free Trade,
With painted face—
The saucy jade!
She ruins trade
And stops the loom,
And soon we'll hear
The crack o' doom.

No, Mr. Day.
We're not asleep,
So stay at home
You're store to keep.
With Mr. Quay
There'll surely come
Good times and the Millenium.

A popular movement has been begun in Melbourne to erect a memorial statue of Gen. Gordon. More than half the required sum—£5,000—has already been subscribed, and an appeal for assistance has been made to Victoria colonists residents in England.

The Prince of Wales, it is estimated, is entitled to wear seventy different uniforms. He has a right to seventeen different military uniforms alone, and special costumes without number associated with his various titles and offices. And he actually does wear them as each occasion arises.

Poetry.

LADY GOLDEN-ROD.

"O pretty Lady Golden-rod,
I'm glad you've come to town!
I saw you standing by the gate,
All in your yellow gown.
No one was with me, and I thought
You might be lonely, too;
And so I took my cardcase
And came to visit you.

"You're fond of company, I know;
You smile so at the sun,
And when the winds go romping past,
You bow to every one.
How you should ever know them all,
I'm sure I cannot tell;
But when I come again, I hope
You'll know me just as well.

"I love you, Lady Golden-rod;
You are so bright and fine;
You never have a rumpled frock,
Or tangled hair like mine.
I think your mamma comes at night,
When we are all away,
And dresses you in green and gold,
Fresh for another day.

"How tall you are, dear Golden-rod!
You're taller most than I;
I cannot grow so very fast,
Although I try and try.
Oh, here's mamma, dear Golden-rod!
I'll ask her please to stop;
And she shall say which one of us
Comes highest at the top."

The lovely Lady Golden-rod
She surely understood;
For when wee Margie turned around,
She bent down all she could;
Until the fluffy yellow heads
Upon a level came,
And Margie's mother, smiling, said:
"Your heights are just the same!"

WHY HE COMES NOT.

She stands at the garden gate to-night;
No word does the maiden speak,
But her eyes are full of an anxious light,
And a teardrop gleams like a diamond bright
On the rose of her velvet cheek.

The sun in his glory has long since set,
The robin has ceased his song;
With the falling dew the leaves are wet,
The hour is past and he comes not yet,
Oh, why does he stay so long?

In vain she seeks to restrain her tears
As the precious moments flee;
And her heart is filled with doubts and fears,
As she lingering stands and strains her ears
For the sound of her lover's feet.

Oh, beauteous maid at the garden gate,
I pity thy woeful plight;
But get thee in, for the hour is late,
For thy lover's coming no longer wait,
He will not appear to-night.

Fain would the youth to thy side have flown
But he hadn't a change of clothes,
For his washerwoman, her patience gone,
To his shirts and collars and cuffs holds on
Till he pays up the bill he owes.

A NOCTURNE.

The Thomas cat now sings upon the shed,
When starry night succeeds the golden day,
Sings after all the boarders are in bed,
And wakes them with his weird nocturnal lay.

Sings till he splits the listening ear of night,
Till windows are thrown open and faces grim
Appear, and then he takes a sudden flight,
With half a dozen bootjacks flying after him.

FROM GIRLHOOD TO WOMANHOOD.

Blushing maid with manner shy,
"Standing with reluctant feet,
Where the brook and river meet,"
Dips her toes in with a sigh—
With a sigh and with a shiver,
Then with one last lingering look
Turns her back upon the brook,
And is swimming in the river.

Our Story Teller.

Dark Waters.

"Carl, I know you think me foolish, but I cannot shake off the feeling. Oh, I would give all I ever hope to possess in the world to know that you were not to sail on that vessel to-morrow."

Carl Henschel smiled superior, and gently caressed the pale cheek of the girl he was engaged to marry; and a sweet and lovely girl she was—fair Marguerite Fraum, or Gretchen, as her lover called her in German fashion.

"What is it that you fear, leibling?" he asked, more for the sake of humoring her, than because he had any wish to know what he called a foolish superstition.

"I scarcely know, dear Carl; it is a dread—a nameless, indescribable dread of something that is going to take you from me forever. Whether it is that you will return no more, or that some other girl will steal your heart from me, that I cannot tell; but something awful, something that will be heard, whispers in my heart, 'You will see him no more—you will see him no more!'"

With a convulsive cry she started up and caught him wiedly in her arms, pressing his head to her bosom till he could feel the trembling of her heart against his cheek. More moved by her agitation than he cared to acknowledge, Carl soothed her by every tender word he could utter to express his love and calm her fears; and after a while Gretchen rallied herself somewhat, and tried to laugh at her own exaggerated fancies. The hour grew late, and the lovers parted at length, to meet on the morrow for a final adieu, and Gretchen, though her heart felt heavier than lead, made a heroic effort to calm and cheerfulness—all the more so because, just at the last, it seemed as though her gloomy forebodings had a trifle dashed her lover's spirits.

"You'll never again think of any one coming between me and you, my Gretchen?" he said. "Death alone can keep me from you, and even then I think my spirit would return to say 'adieu', and beg you not to mourn too deeply for my loss."

He caught her once more to his breast, kissed her passionately, and the next moment Gretchen was alone, listening to the heavy door as it closed behind him, and then to the ring of his footsteps as they died away far down the street. Slowly her leaden steps carried her to her room; but not to rest. She spoke truly when she said she could not shake off the feeling that overmastered her. Faint and sad she sank into a seat, and gave herself up to gloomy musings. Did she indeed fear another woman who might usurp her place in Carl's heart? She knew that her dread was a more appalling one. Was it a rival more terrible than aught of this world that she feared?

"Pale, beyond porch and portal,
Crowned with calm leaves, she stands,
Who gathers all things mortal
With cold, immortal hands."

Gretchen dared not acknowledge to herself that such was her fear; but the lines of the English poet rung like a knell in her ears, and she shivered as though she felt the touch of those "cold immortal hands" already between her and her lover. She burst into hysterical weeping, and the outburst of emotion calmed her. The customary reaction followed it, and after a time she slept soundly till the morning light, streaming over her pale face, awakened her.

She was up and dressed at an early hour; but early as it it was, Carl was announced almost as soon as she was ready to see him. The last hours flew by with that sickening rapidity which we have all felt when every hour seemed a minute, while we would gladly have stretched every second to an hour. Gretchen, with many friends accompanied Carl to the vessel; and with scores of others they walked up and down the deck of the ill-fated Schiller, speaking again and again words of parting, words of hope and cheer and love, and promises, a hundred times repeated, to write every day.

The gentle girl bore up bravely as long as they were together; but her father lifted her light form in the carriage, and placed her fainting into her mother's arms, as the vessel that bore her lover sailed away. After a couple of days of utter prostration, the strong vitality of youth asserted itself, and Gretchen strove with all the powers of her mind to dispel the gloom which had taken possession of her, and succeeded so far that she sometimes dreamed in the castle-building visions which lovers delight in of the return of her lover, and of the time when nothing could separate them—when she would accompany him in all his journeyings by sea and land, and never more let earth or ocean come between them.

One night she retired to rest very tired, for she strove with constant occupation to keep her mind employed and often over-fatigued herself; but her spirits were good, and her thoughts of Carl hopeful and joyous. She fell asleep with his name on her lips, and a prayer that he would soon return to her. That prayer was granted sooner than she expected.

In the days that followed Gretchen could never determine how long she had slept; she only knew that she was awakened suddenly, hearing her name called, and started up in bed, listening. She was startled, but not afraid, and presently, when she heard herself called again in a low voice, but quite distinctly, she knew the voice for Carl's, and she rose quickly, threw on her dressing-gown and went to the window which opened over the street. Her room was on the first floor, and the night being warm, she had left the window half open for air; the moonlight flooded the room when she fell asleep, but now the moon was gone, but by the light of the street-lamps she saw Carl Henschel standing on the door-steps, and looking up at her window. When she leaned out and looked down at him he spoke her name for the third time. She gave a quick, glad cry.

"Oh, Carl, is it you?" she asked.

"Yes, my Gretchen, it is I; I told you I would come back, liebling."

His voice sounded sad, but sweet with love and the joy of seeing her and Gretchen felt that she could have flown down out of the window into his arms.

"Stay, Carl—wait a moment, dearest, and I will come down to you," she said, and searching hastily for her slippers, she put them on, drew her dressing gown closer about her, and hurried down stairs. No thought of the hour of night oppressed her, although confused questionings rose in her mind, asking how Carl came there? by what chance had he returned? O, no doubt he had repented of the voyage—the vessel had passed another vessel homeward-bound, and he had returned to her. What matter how, so long as he had come, and in a moment he would explain it all. She reached the door, her eager, nervous fingers locked and unlocked it in her haste, fumbled with the chain, but succeeded at last in making it obey her, and the door was open.

"O, Carl! my own—my darling!"

She made one step forward, but recoiled, cold and trembling, and leaned for support against the door. There was no one on the steps, no one within sight, but the watchman, slowly pacing along the street on the opposite side, and he glanced toward her with amazement and inquiry. She summoned all her strength, and retreating into the hall, she locked and bolted the door again.

"I have been dreaming," she thought, and tried to believe so; but she shook as with an ague, and her trembling limbs almost sank beneath her as she mounted the stairs to her room again. She looked at the window—yes, it was open; she knew she had looked out of it, and seen him, and now—

"Gretchen!" once more she heard her name spoken, and it was his voice.

"Carl—Carl!" she cried, and tottered to the window. She sank beside it, leaned out with clasped hands, and wild eyes imploringly bent downward. She did not dream now; she knew she had not dreamed before; for standing on the front steps she saw Carl Henschel, and looking up at her, the face whose image was graven on her heart, but, oh, how pale.

The head was now uncovered, but he held no hat in his hands, both of which hung limply by his side, and from his whole figure Gretchen saw that the drops of water dripped, dripped in a shower to the pavement, and the face upturned to her, with the lamplight shining on it, was the face of the dead. With one low, awful cry she sank lifeless on the floor.

Gretchen still lay unconscious, in that deep swoon, when her mother entered the room at an unusually early hour; and it was the close of the second day before she returned to the things of this world sufficiently to recognize those about her. When she did, their sad faces and miserable attempts at composure were terribly well understood by her; and she knew why all the papers of the day were carefully kept from her.

Gretchen smiled sadly, and, laying her pale hand gently on her mother's, she said:

"You need not fear to tell me, my mother, I know it all. The Schiller is lost, and my Carl is drowned."

Mrs. Fraum became very pale, and burst into tears.

"Who has told you, then, Gretchen?" she sobbed.

"Carl himself; he came to me that night when you found me the morning afterward as one dead."

Mrs. Fraum thought her child raved; and indeed, Gretchen's story sounded like delirium; but even her parents were obliged to accept it as truth at last. The girl read the terrible tidings of the Schiller disaster with the same immovable calm which had distinguished her manner since that visit from her dead lover—no tear, no sob relieved her pent-up anguish—and so she continues. Whether the blow to her affections and the shock to her brain will take away her life or her reason none can tell; but her dearest friends feel that they pray for the coming of the dread messenger who will bear her spirit to that of him she loved so well—so sadly!

Hurry up and Get Married.

Below we print a full list of the questions which will have to be answered by those making application for a marriage license under the law passed by the last Legislature, and which goes into effect on the 1st of October next:

1. Full name of man.
2. Full name of woman.
3. Relationship of the parties, either by blood or marriage.
4. Age of the man.
5. Age of the woman.
6. Residence of the man.
7. Residence of the woman.
8. Parents' name—man.
9. Parents' name—woman.
10. Guardian's name—man.
11. Guardian's name—woman.
12. Consent of parents or guardian.
13. Date of death of man's former wife, if any.
14. Date of death of woman's former husband, if any.
15. Date of divorce of man at any time.
16. Date of divorce of woman at any time.
17. Color of parties.
18. Occupation of man.
19. Occupation of woman.

The interrogatories of course are answered under oath, and subscribed to by those anxious to plunge into martial bliss. Question five and others will, no doubt, occasion some lively squirming when it is understood that answers are written down in the docket kept by the Clerk of the Courts, and stands as a matter of public record.

Lycurgus and Opedeldoc.

What we give below is much better than an editorial on the political situation. It is the work of a Texas editor, in imitation of Victor Hugo:

'Tis night;
In Gatesville,
The moon is overcast—
Bully for the moon.
Lycurgus and Opedeldoc.
Two cats—
Thomas cats—
Appear upon the woodshed roof.
Lycurgus, with tail unfurled and head uplited high in the air, comes on with back up-bent and yawls portentous.
Ditto as to Opedeldoc.
Now, immortal gods, look on!
They buckle to.
Spit! spit!! spit!!!
Biff!!!!
Hark—
A window is lifted and a wild-eyed man appeared with musket in hand—
Bang!
Scampers Lycurgus and Opedeldoc from the wood-shed roof, crying:
"Saved!"
"Saved!"
But the man—oh, where was he—
Kicked clear across the hall into the next room.
Musket hadn't been fired since the war.
Finis.

De Cull'd Lady was In.

Detroit Free Press.

"Is the lady of the house in?" he asked as he stood on the steps of a residence in Cass avenue the other morning.

"Which lady of de house?" asked the one who answered the ring.

"Why, are there two?"

"Sartin, sah. If you want de white lady, she am out. If you want de cull'd lady, purceed to dewelop."

The Old Doctor's Story.

"I have a little story to tell you, boys," the old doctor said to the young people the other evening. "One day—a long, hot day it had been, too—I met my father on the road to town.

"I wish you would take this package to the village for me, Jim he said, hesitating.

"Now, I was a boy of twelve, not fond of work, and just out of the hayfield, where I had been at work since daybreak. I was tired, dusty and hungry. It was two miles into town. I wanted to get my supper, and to wash and dress for singing school.

"My first impulse was to refuse, and to do it harshly, for I was vexed that he should ask me after my long day's work. If I did refuse, he would go himself. He was a gentle, patient old man. But something stopped me: one of God's good angels, I think.

"Of course, father, I'll take it,' I said heartily giving my scythe to one of the men. He gave me the package.

'Thank you Jim,' he said, 'I was going myself, but somehaw I don't feel very strong to-day.'

"He walked with me to the road that turned off to the town; as he left, he put his hand on my arm, saying again, 'Thank you, my son; you've always been a good boy to me, Jim.'

"I hurried into town and back again.

"When I came near the house I saw a crowd of farm hands at the door. One of them came to me, the tears rolling down his face.

"Your father' he said, 'fell dead just as he reached the house The last words he spoke were to you.'

"I'm an old man now; but I have thanked God over and over again in all the years that have passed since that hour that those last words were, 'You've always been a good boy to me."

No human being ever yet was sorry for love or kindness shown to others. But there is no pang of remorse so keen as the bitterness with which we remember neglect or coldness which we have shown to loved ones who are dead.

Do not begrudge loving deeds and kind words, especially to those who gather with you about the same hearth. In many families a habit of nagging, crossness, or ill-natured gibing, gradually covers the feeling of love that lies deep beneath.

And after all it is such a little way that we can go together.—Baptist Weekly.

Airy and Fresh.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Sun writes: Some of the new department officials are rather fresh, and have what the Methodists call a realizing sense of the dignity and importance of their positions. The protruding self complacency of a chief of division in the Treasury caused a funny scene the other day. In order that he may be more easily benefited it should be said that he was appointed during the last days of the Arthur administration, and Secretary Manning's reform had not yet reached the room in which he presides. He was sitting at his desk the other day contemplating plans for retaining his position, when a tall, venerable man came into the room, and, in a quiet, respectful way, observed that he would like to see the documents in such and such a case.

"What is your name?" asked the Chief of Division.

"Strong," was the reply.

"What's your first name?"

"William," and a queer smile stole over his face.

"Where do you reside?"

"Washington."

"Lawyer?"

"I formerly practiced law, but have not done so for years."

"Are you attorney in this case?"

"No, sir."

"What do you want to see the papers for then?"

"I have been appointed arbitrator by the Courts, and it becomes necessary for me to examine them."

"When were you appointed?"

"Nearly a month ago. I have been absent from the city or should have called for them before."

"What did you say your name was?"

"William Strong." At this the lady stenographer of the presiding genius of the office, who had been writhing about in her chair as if on the ragged edge of hysterics, jumped up and exclaimed:

"Mr. ——, you don't appear to know the gentleman. This is Justice Strong, of the United States Supreme Court."

The Justice got leave to look at the papers

The Bet Was Off.

From the Detroit Free Press.

A few days ago, after a couple of esteemed citizens, who are close neighbors, had arranged to pass a few days with their families at a lake in Oakland county, one of them offered to wager a box of cigars that he would catch the largest fish. The wager was promptly taken, and next day one of the gentlemen put in an appearance at a fish stand on the market, and said to the dealer:

"Have you got a fresh pickerel weighing about fifteen pounds?"

"I have, sir."

"Well, I want you to put him on ice and ship him to me at —— Lake. I propose to catch him on a hook out there."

"Very well, sir. I think I'll ship the two together."

"The two?"

"Yes, sir. Mr. —— (mentioning the other esteemed citizen) was here an hour ago and bought one weighing twenty pounds. It will take less ice to pack the two in the same box."

The fish were paid for, but the bet was declared off.

Smile, if They Amuse You.

A LITTLE PAINTING.

Bromley—"I bought a little painting yesterday—quite a gem—cost me $200. Pretty steep, wasn't it?"

Perkins—"Rather; still not very steep. Your son-in-law, De Baggs, has a painting that must have cost him $2,000."

"Good gracious! I never knew that. I must have a look at it."

"Well, the next time you meet him take a good look at his nose."

STOP HER.

"How is this, doctor?" said a country editor to one of his subscribers. "I sent you a bill for subscription, and received $2 and this little cork. I can grasp the idea embodied in the $2, but I don't quite catch on to the cork," and the c. e. smiled his most affable smile.

"That means stopper," said the doctor, and he hasn't received a copy of the paper since.

THE COST OF EDUCATION.

"Your studies are costing me a great deal, said a father to his son, as he reached in his pocket for money to buy more books with.

"I know it, father," replied the son, with some emotion, as he pocketed a $10 bill, "and I don't study very hard, either."

A PRETTY COMPLIMENT.

Clara—I understand Mr. Featherly paid me a very pretty compliment to-day?"

Ethel—"Yes? What was it?"

Clara—He said that among the most beautiful young ladies at the party last night was Miss Clara Smith.

Ethel (with a cough)—Yes, I noticed you among them.

HEAVED A PARTING SIGH.

"It is sad to think," sighed the cashier as he walked into the night with his valise in hand and gazed upon the massive marble bank building, "sad to think that I must leave that noble structure behind me. But I must do so. I cannot take it with me."

And dropping a tear he gripped his valise with a tighter grip and hurried off to catch the Montreal train.—Boston Journal.

Professional Courtesy.

In driving out into the country on the Grand River roads a few days ago a Detroit lawyer encountered a horse and buggy driven by a woman. As she was driving on the wrong side of the road he made up his mind not to give up his rights. As a consequence the two horses finally came to a stand still with their noses rubbing each other. The lawyer stared at the woman and the woman stared back. Then he pulled a newspaper from his pocket and began reading. In a minute she had her knitting out and was industriously at work. Ten long minutes in a broiling sun passed away, and the lawyer looked up and asked:

"How long are you going to stay here?"

"How long are you?"

"All day."

"And I'll stay here a whole week."

He read and she knit for another ten minutes, and then the lawyer called out:

"Do you know that I'm a lawyer?"

"I don't care for that," she replied. "I'm the wife of a Justice of the Peace."

"Oh—ah—excuse me, madame Really, but if I'd known you belonged to the purfesh this would not have happened. Take this side, madame, take the whole road!"

He Was Fetched.

The following story is vouched for by an exchange: A young Englishman came to a certain town not a thousand miles from Connelsville, and took up his residence. But, strange to say, could never find anything there that was half so large, half so pretty, half so ugly, or half so good, nor ever heard of anything half so wonderful as could be seen in 'Hold Hingland." It seemed the longer he lived in the modest town and the better acquainted he became, the more arrogant he grew. Some of his associates finally thought to have a joke at his expense, and forthwith placed some turtles in his bed. Evening came and the young man carelessly rolled in bed, but immediately sprang up again as though he had lain down upon a bed of thistles, and was horrified to find several large and hideous creatures clinging to his under garments. He rushed frantically down stairs and notwithstanding his appearance burst into the living room, demanded an explanation. The landlord, equal to the occasion, calmly informed the frightened man that the animals were only American bed bugs. This was a crusher to the English gentleman and he wilted.

The Ice Cream Joke.

The origin of the joke about the female appetite for ice cream is found in the early Aryan inscriptions—figures found on a monolith at Cunaxa, representing a male and female figure seated at a banquet. The female has a large mound of some edible before her. The expression on the male's face is that of astonishment and anxiety, while he looks at a small coin supposed to be one of the Aryan ten-milli or common coins. On the other side of the monolith is a group, representing one man falling down a steep flight of steps, having evidently been thrown by a grinning group who stand at the head of the descent. Dr. Schlieman thinks this spirited representation is indicative of the fate of those who took the ice cream joke into Aryan newspaper offices.

The past belongs to everybody. The future is for him who catches on.

The Veterans' Picnic.

The Centre County Veteran Association held their annual picnic last nic to-day on the fair ground. The early morning was not very promising for a pleasant day, which prevented a large number from coming, but by 10 o'clock the town was quite full of people, including between 300 and 400 veterans. The hall of Gregg Post, G. A. R., Anderson's restaurant, Armory Hall, the Benner residence, the Brockerhoff House and one or two business establishments on Allegheny street displayed flags in honor of the occasion. The first musical organization to put in appearance was the Snow Shoe band, the drum major of which is Mr. John Uzzle. This band at once attracted attention. It is a new organization, and plays very well. The uniforms are dark blue, with profuse trimmings of red. Drum Major Uzzle wears a large cap with a red plume towering above it. His uniform is very handsome and as he is personally a fine looking man, his appearance is striking. He marches ahead of his band and comports himself with all the grace of a dancing master and the skill of a veteran.

This band preceded the line of veterans who marched to the picnic grounds. The hacks did a good business in carrying people there and large numbers went in private conveyances. We must not omit to mention the Curtin band, which arrived about 11:30 o'clock and swelled the volume of music. Austin Curtin, commander of the G. A. R., Gen. Beaver, ex-Gov. Curtin, D. F. Fortney and many other eminent gentlemen were present.

After the opening exercises, a fine dinner was served to the veterans and their friends in the large building on the ground. The veterans were well pleased with their entertainment, and enjoyed themselves heartily.

—The school board at a special meeting held September 11 adopted a spelling book for the three lowest primary grades of the school. At a former meeting a teacher of one of these grades, when interrogated, said that she did not need a speller in her room, as the book then in use had in it both spelling and reading, and that she gave her pupils words to spell from the reading lesson. The speller was adopted by eight yeas to one nay. The board adopted "Goodrich's Pictorial History of the World," for use in the High school. New Second and Third readers, for use in the large building, were adopted unanimously. These readers may be exchanged by the pupils free of cost.

—Mrs. Hugh Glenn, who died at Martha, on Thursday evening, was the sister of William Clark, of this place. Another brother, John, lives at Jackson's Mine Bank, and a brother, Thomas, resides at Martha. Mrs. Armstrong, who lives on Lamb street, in this place, is a sister. Mrs. Glenn's death was sudden and occurred about 7 o'clock, while she was in the barn. She was 50 years,——months and——days of age. She leaves no children. Her remains were brought to this place on the 9.32 a. m. train and the funeral took place Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the residence of Richard Morgan, on Logan St. The late Mrs Morgan was a sister of Mrs. Glenn.

A Proverb Among Proverbs.

Here is a curious puzzle: Take a word from each of the proverbs, one after another. If you hit on the right word, at the end you will have a sentence which forms another proverb, a very common one. We will help you by telling you that the beginning word is "never."

1. The highway is never about.
2. If you look not at a costly thing you may not be tempted to buy.
3. Two of a trade seldom agree.
4. In remembering the gift remember also the giver.
5. A nod is as good as a wink to a blind horse.
6. When the wine is in the wit is out.
7. The longest lane must have a turning.
8. Words from the mouth die in the ear.

Wants Thanksgiving Day Changed.

Only Temperance Bitters Known.

No other medicine known so effectually purges the blood of deep-seated diseases.

Millions bear testimony to its wonderful curative effects.

It is a purely Vegetable Preparation, made from the native herbs and roots of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol.

It removes the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health.

It is the great Blood Purifier and Life-giving Principle; a Gentle Purgative and Tonic; a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the power of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to.

The Alterative, Aperient, Diaphoretic, Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Anti-Bilious, Solvent, Diuretic and Tonic properties of VINEGAR BITTERS exceed those of any other medicine in the world.

No person can take the BITTERS according to directions and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

Bilious, Remittent, Intermittent and Malarial Fevers, are prevalent throughout the United States, particularly in the valleys of our great rivers and their vast tributaries during the Summer and Autumn, especially during seasons of unusual heat and dryness.

These Fevers are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these organs, is absolutely necessary.

There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to Dr. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as it will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus forearmed.

It Invigorates the Stomach and stimulates the torpid Liver and Bowels, cleansing the blood of all impurities, imparting life and vigor to the frame, and carrying off without the aid of Calomel, or other minerals, all poisonous matter from the system.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Pneumonia, Dizziness, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are at once relieved by VINEGAR BITTERS.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, the Bitters have no equal. In these, as in all constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS has shown its great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to Paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take occasional doses of VINEGAR BITTERS.

Skin Diseases, Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Ulcers, Swellings, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations, Humors and diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of the Bitters.

Pin, Tape and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics, will free the system from worms like VINEGAR BITTERS.

Measles, Scarlet Fever, Mumps, Whooping Cough, and all children's diseases may be made less severe by keeping the bowels open with mild doses of the Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, this Bitters has no equal.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood when its impurities burst through the skin in Eruptions or Sores; cleanse it when obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when, and the health of the system will follow.

In conclusion: Give the Bitters a trial. It will speak for itself. One bottle is a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Around each bottle are full directions printed in different languages.

Capturing a Town.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—A telegram from Panama says: On the morning of August 15 a detachment of government troops occupying the town of, Canta, sixty miles from Lima, in the valley running parallel to that of the Rimac, was surprised by a division of General Caceres' army, and after a sharp action of several hours was forced to fly in disorder. The government troops operating against Canta were 350 men of the line with one gatling gun, fifty cavalrymen and fifty mounted gendarmes, the whole force being commanded by Colonel Torres. Canta had been occupied for several days, the Montoneros, or irregular revolutionary forces, retiring on the approach of a considerable division of the enemy, and upon Colonel Bastamente's advice it was decided to defend the town.

On Saturday at 7 a. m. the hills around Canta were occupied by the enemy, apparently 1,500 or 2,000 strong, and with about 200 cavalry. The latter were stationed at the outlets of the valley leading toward the coast and the interior, so that from the first the government forces were effectually corraled. Colonel Torres had placed his men in the barracks, situated in the principal square of the town, having also small outlying squads behind some of the walls in the suburbs. Caceres' artillery, four small field pieces, opened fire from the hill at Huaychullani at half-past 7, and in a few moments the firing became general. The enemy descended the hills and attempted to enter the town, but were repeatedly driven back. For two hours the positions of the combatants were unaltered, the fire being all the time heavy. At noon the defenders of the place began to slacken their fire, for their ammunition was rapidly becoming exhausted, and for an hour they received without reply the volleys of the attacking party.

At 2 o'clock a desperate attempt was made to drive the rebels from the town, which they had entered, at the point of the bayonet. This failed, and then the defeat was accomplished. The fight was hand-to-hand in the streets, no quarter being given, and the most dreadful scenes of carnage occurred. Houses where some of the defeated soldiers had taken refuge were broken open and all found within murdered without distinction of age, sex or character, and then were burned. A few of the most determined of the government cavalrymen, headed by Colonel Pachas, cut through their oppenents and made their escape. Colonel Bushamente, to whose counsel the defeat was due, seeing that all was lost, blew out his brains on the field of action. Colonel Torres escaped early in the fight, and the government has named another officer to command the decimated government forces. Of the five hundred or six hundred men on the government side, probably two hundred escaped by fleeing to the mountains or following Pachas. Very few prisoners were taken, for, as has been stated, no quarter was given. The Cacerists were commanded by Colonel Morales Bermudez, and it is stated that Caceres with his stiff arrived at Canta the day after the battle. The losses of the revolutionary forces are not known. From the fact that the Canjamarac battalion was decidedly the finest in the government service, the partisans of Caceres here are jubilant over his success.

The Great Race.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—In the 38-mile race over the New York yacht club course to-day the Puritan defeated the Genesta by sixteen minutes and nineteen seconds corrected time, or sixteen minutes and forty-seven seconds actual time. The wind was extremely light from the start to Sandy Hook going out and from there to the finish coming in. From the Hook to the light ship and back there was a good eight knot breeze. The tide was flood during the first half of the race and ebb coming home. The largest fleet of steamers ever assembled in New York harbor for a similar event accompanied the yachts over the entire course. The scene at the finish was one of the grandest ever witnessed. Both yachts were saluted by every vessel and guns from Fort Wadsworth, Staten Island. Owing to the cracking of the iron cap of the Genesta's main mast the outside race is postponed till Wednesday.

Another Outrage on the Chinese.

SEATLE, W. T., Sept. 13.—A large building occupied by Chinese laborers at the Coal Creek mines, twenty miles from here, was attacked by a mob about 1 o'clock yesterday morning. The Chinamen, about fifty in number, fled into the woods. The Chinese lodging house and cook house were burned. The buildings burned belong to the Oregon improvement company. The attacking party were all masked. None of the Chinamen were attacked. The attack coming so soon after the Squak valley massacre, has created an uneasy feeling here, and trouble at the New Castle mines is feared.

Probably a Murder.

RAMEY, Pa., Sept. 14.—A sad affair occurred one mile south of this place about 2.30 o'clock this afternoon. Two brothers, Henry and William McGowen, in company with three or four other men or large boys, all from Houtzdale, were discovered in an orchard belonging to Samuel Whiteside. Isaac Wolf, who farms for Mr. Whiteside, took his rifle and fired at the intruders, the ball striking Henry McGowen, entering the right side above the hip bone and lodging in his body. The wounded man was removed to his home in Houtzdale and when last heard from was lying in a critical condition with but little likelihood of recovery. Wolf, who fired the fatal shot, claims that these and other parties have been in the habit of stealing his apples and claims to have warned them to leave before he fired. Up to this time Wolf, who is a married man, with an excellent wife and five or six children, is still at large, although the feeling against him is running high among the friends of the wounded man and threats of lynching are freely made.

Emory A. Storrs Dead.

OTTAWA, Ill., Sept. 13.—Emory A. Storrs, the well-known lawyer, died suddenly here yesterday morning of paralysis of the heart. He was born in Chattaraugus, N. Y., in 1834, and was admitted to the Buffalo bar in 1855. He removed to Chicago in 1859. Mr. Storrs never occupied any public position, but was long prominent in Illinois politics. He was one of the most ardent supporters of General Grant for a third term, seconding Mr. Conkling's nomination of him in 1880. Mr. Storrs was well known and popular as a lecturer through his discourses on "Culture," "English Constitution," "Patriotism," "Men of Action," "Municipal Government" and those delivered before the historical society.

Dr. Talmage's Trustees Arrested.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Rev. T. De Witt Talmage arrived from Europe on the Aurania last night. A large party of officers and members of his church were down the bay all day in the steamer Crystal Wave watching for him. They put ashore at Atlantic Highlands Camp-meeting grounds, and went to the hotel for dinner, while eating which they were put under arrest and their boat seized by a New Jersey constable, under a law forbidding the landing of excursionists on Sunday at the Atlantic Highlands. They were released as soon as they explained who they were.

Death of a Prominent Citizen.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Sept. 14.—Colonel Daniel Krebs, one of the oldest and most prominent citizens of Pottsville, died this afternoon of paralysis, aged 79 years. Mr. Krebs was an active business man and held many civil and military offices. He represented Schuylkill county in the state legislature in 1838. Was postmaster of Pottsville under President Buchanan and inspector of customs at Philadelphia under Collector Coke. He was one of the oldest Masons in the county.

He Threw a Stone at a Nitro-Glycerine Can.

BRADFORD, Pa., Sept. 13.—While out playing this afternoon, about two miles south of this city, some boys discovered a disused nitro-glycerine can, and one of them, George Canfield, aged 17 years, threw a stone at it He was a good marksman, and the stone exploded what little glycerine remained in the can. The force of the explosion caused the stone to rebound, one piece of it striking Canfield in the abdomen and another in the cheek. He lived an hour only.

Overdose of Morphia.

LANCASTER, Sept. 13.—Dr. Frank M. Musser, a prominent young physician of this city, died at 2.30 yesterday afternoon from the effect of an of overdose morphine. He had long suffered from severe headaches and on Thursday afternoon took an injection of morphia to relieve pain. The dose was too large, and he sank into unconsciousness, from which he did not recover. He was 35 years old and leaves a wife and three children.

The Cholera Spreading in Italy.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—The cholera pest, although dying out in Spain and France, is causing great anxiety in Italy. The plague is rooted at Palermo, and is extending to many places along the line of the railway between Parma and Spezzia. The inhabitants declare that the trains spread infection, and they threaten to tear up the railroad tracks, as was done elsewhere in Italy last year.

Mr. Gladstone Attends Church.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—Mr. Gladstone was well enough to go to church today. At the head of a small procession, comprising his wife and their three sons and three daughters, he made his way somewhat painfully from Hawarden Castle to the parish church. The twinges of lumbago caused him to limp slightly, but he looked well, and greeted his old neighbors with great cheerfulness.

Employes Discharged from a Mint.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 13.—Ten cutters, annealers and rollers employed in the United States mint said to the chief coiner yesterday morning that they would quit work unless given assurances that they would be retained. This was looked upon as the initial step in a strike, intended to impair the efficiency of the service at the mint, and the men were at once discharged.

To be Tried for James Irvin's Murder.

HUNTINGDON, Sept. 14.—The grand jury found a true bill to-day against Jack Laporte for the murder of James Irvin. It is expected that the trial will begin on Wednesday, and it will probably continue till the middle of next week.

Brief Telegrams.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 13.—The merits of the oleomargarine law were further discussed yesterday morning before Judge Simonton. In closing for the defense Lyman D. Gilbert said the act was unconstitutional, because it deprived the defendant of his property without providing for compensation. Judge Simonton reserved his decision.

LOCUST GAP, Pa., Sept. 12.—Barney Harvey, a lad 17 years old, was instantly killed at Locust Spring colliery yesterday morning. Yesterday was his first day in the mines. He was employed as door-boy. He left his work and, not being acquainted with the mines, was caught between the wagon and timbers and crushed to death.

NORRISTOWN, Sept. 13.—Yesterday afternoon Judge Boyer sentenced Alexander Steele, the insane asylum attendant who was convicted at the June court of manslaughter for the killing of Theodore F. Castor, a patient at the institution, to three years at hard labor in the county prison. His counsel asked for mercy. Steele looked pale.

ROCKLAND, Mass., Sept. 13.—Charles Young, E. S. Curtis and Arthur Wheeler were drowned to-day by the upsetting of their boat while sailing.

FROM BRUSH VALLEY.

Farmers, being done seeding, are now busily engaged in cutting the crop of corn, which, fortunately for them, is above the average.

Supt. Wolf will have an official talk with the teachers of our township, on Thursday next (17 inst). Wish them well.

The Evangelical Church will be rededicated on Sept. 27, when Bishop Dubbs is to deliver the sermon. It pays well to hear him.

Mr. Reuben Cramley bought the home of W. H. Corman in East Rebersburg for $1087.50. Mr. C. talks of going West.

Squirrels are scarce, at least have not heard any improbable stories so far from any of our Nimrods.

"The highest bidder, the buyer," is not always true, as was fully shown at Rebersburg a few days ago, when Miss Mary Hillibish's lots—five acres—were sold at public outcry. The highest as well as the best bid was openly and deliberately refused. To the crowd, the crier's explanation why he refused the bid, was as clear as mud.

John A. Miller, Postmaster at Rebersburg, is removed to give place to John C. Smull, who received notice a few days ago of his appointment. Why Mr. M. was removed is not known, unless it is because he is a member of the Grand Army, or an "offensive partisan."

Rev. Wm. Hoy, a recent graduate of Lancaster Seminary, gave the people of Rebersburg and Madisonburg several Interesting talks on the subject of Foreign missions. Your correspondent had not the pleasure to hear him, but others report that he is a talented young man, and possesses sufficient enthusiasm and interest in the work to become a useful man to the church. He will in a few weeks sail for Japan, where he will labor in the interests of the Board of Foreign missions of the Reformed church. MILES.

EAGLEVILLE.

Mr. Albert Williams is building a handsome mansion. Mr. Samuel M. Hall is the contractor and will use his skill in making the building a fine structure.

Samuel H. Kunes is now occupying his new home. The surroundings are such as are calculated to contribute to his happiness.

A new minister has been called by the Baptist congregation here.

BAILEYVILLE BUDGET.

SEPT. 15, 1885.

Miss Hattie Boyer, of Tyrone, is visiting her friend, Miss Nettie Gardner, of this place.

Mr. J. McGohen, our genial merchant, made a business (?) trip to Scotia on Tuesday evening and reports business "lively" in that section, and we believe it is true, for Mc. has been smiling ever since. Who can divine the cause?

Mr. Nathan Dale, of Pleasant Gap, paid a visit to our busy village last week and spent the night in close proximity to the blacksmith shop. Query: What brings "Nat" up so often?

One of our "Nimrods" with gun on his shoulder and blood in his eye, started to the mountain in search of the "frisky squirrel." After an absence of several hours and a waste of a great many cartridges, he returned—not by the street, but by an unfrequented path—and when he emptied his game bag (apparently unseen) lo and behold! it contained one little red squirrel and one sparrow hawk. We saw you, Clark.

Mr. A. G. Ewing, merchant of West Baileyville, is adding a wareroom to his already extensive storehouse.

The basket picnic at Pine Grove Mills on Saturday was a success. The exercises consisted of singing by the singing classes present and an address by Rev. A. K. Felton.

Two games of base ball were played. The first was by a Pine Grove and a "picked" nine, in which the "picked" nine were victorious by a score of 16 to 5. The game played by the Branch and Pine Grove nines was given to the former by a score of 9 to 0, as the Pine Grove nine refused to play the last inning. The real score was 21 to 4 in favor of the Branch nine.

Strange but Common.

The vicinity North of Unionville was shaken from centre to circumference by the sudden uprising of about fifty of the inhabitants headed we might say by the much respected Dr. Blair and wife. Strange to say, that persons renowned for their decorum should so suddenly step out of their ordinary course and lead others off with them. But they did. Congregating at the residence of David Spotts, a well-to do farmer of Union Township, whose daughter Laura had previously been espoused to a young gentleman known as Philip L. Steer, having decided that her days of single-blessedness should have an end on Thursday, the 10th of September, A. D. 1885; accordingly while the multitude were coming together, and preparations were being completed for the nuptials, a span of elegantly harnessed horses with a driver were despatched to Snow Shoe Intersection to hasten thither the parson, who with his usual business-like manner soon put in an appearance upon the scene of action, declared the two to be one, according to a rule given in the Garden of Eden.

Let it suffice to say that Philip L. Steer and Laura C. Spotts, of Marion Township, were married. There were four attendants, and over fifty witnesses, who all shared the overflowing hospitality of Mr. Spotts and his wife, evinced by the luxuriant table to which all were invited. Neither did the guests fail to express their regard for the honor conferred upon them, but frankly responded by presenting to the bride many handsome and useful gifts. Long may they live to enjoy them.

Yours respectfully —

—The Pennsylvania State College opened this term with a freshman class of thirty, the largest in many years. The members of the class represent nearly all parts of the State. They were unusually well prepared for the entrance examinations. Some doubt has been expressed whether the advanced standard of requirements lately adopted would not keep students from applying for admission, but experience thus far shows that it results in attracting a wider constituency and in raising the standard of work in preparatory schools. All the members of the faculty were present at the opening except Professor Barnard (of the chair of civil engineering), who is temporarily absent in the service of the United States Geodetic Survey, and Lieutenant Leyden, (4th Infantry, U. S. A.) who is now on the homeward passage from a vacation trip to Europe. During the recent vacation extensive repairs and improvements have been made in the college dormitories. The main building is heated by steam in every room, is supplied with a never-failing abundance of water, and is located in one of the most beautiful and healthful valleys in Central Pennsylvania. The Department of Mechanic Arts, which was reorganized a year ago and extended to a three-years' course, combining shop-work with study, is just now erecting a new and ample building for its special use.

—A gentleman in this place has received a request from Mrs. Grant, widow of the late U. S. Grant, for an additional copy of the Daily News of Monday, August 10, containing the proceedings of the Grant memorial meeting of Saturday, the 8th. Of course, the request was honored with a copy of the News.

—We are informed that last week, on Tuesday night, the 8th, a man named Murphy, who is a huckster along the Bald Eagle, met with an accident. His vehicle ran off a bridge between Beaver Mills and Philipsburg and Mr. Murphy was precipitated against the rock. He is in a critical condition.

—Mr. Adolphus Petriken, who was for several years a resident of Bellefonte, but now living in Colorado, is visiting his friends in Bellefonte, expecting to remain only a few days He looks well, and although he tells us he is married and has two young Petrikens growing up about him, he doesn't seem to be any older than he was five or six years ago.

—Mr. S. A. Stover, proprietor of Bellefonte's popular granite and marble works, has recovered from his illness and is again able to attend to business. He will be pleased to see customers at his establishment on High street.

A Few Thoughts on the Dangers and Advantages of Christian Recreations.

If there be what are called hindrances in the way of a better spiritual experience in our churches, then there should be great searchings of heart, both by pastors and laymen. But is there such declension—such falling away? A difference in the use of methods may, in some minds, have excited such apprehension. I can see no sign of care upon the faces of the Christian community—but, on the other hand, an urbane, cheery, and complacent deportment is assurance that "all is well." I am rejoiced to know, that recreations in the parlors of good people cannot fail, with due diligence, to largely increase the membership in our churches—this increase, for the most part, from the ranks of the young. I refer to "euchre and whist" diversions in the parlor. Of course, I have nothing to say about "draw-poker and brag" in clubs and saloons, unless it be merely to observe that these questionable places, can only be closed out, by introducing their games into a better moral atmosphere, surrounded with the refinements of a purer culture. These parlor games, under Christian control, do teach that religion is a very desirable thing. The sternness of an exacting Puritanism under the polite and graceful influence of a later Christian regime, has faded into the dark shadows of superstition, where it belongs. The subtle methods of the Devil are subsidized, and made to open up a way of deliverance from places, where indulgence in these games would be perilous indeed. What an advance in our Christianity when we have become "wise as serpents and harmless as doves!"

It is also a noticeable fact (and a very transporting truth) that since the introduction of the ancient and fascinating game of whist in the home circle, the festivals and fairs of the churches, are the more enjoyable, and vastly more remunerative.

Games of chance induce extravagance in outlay, but at festivals, this reckless and senseless habit is rather encouraged, for thereby our church interests are much promoted. The writer was politely entreated the other day, by a young man to "duff up" a quarter to help him win a watch, at a church fair. What a blessed thing it is that the spirit fostered by gaming can be utilized, and under Christian harness, can become a financial blessing to the church. What a conserving and potent force in a well-ordered Christianity! Notwithstanding, "let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall."

[We are not prepared to endorse the sentiments of the writer on this subject. They are, however, clothed in excellent language and very skillfully put. We believe that they will provoke criticism from persons who still devoutly believe in the "exacting Puritanism," to which the writer alludes, as the true and safe form of religion.—ED.]

Mortality in Boggs Township.

MR. EDITOR: It becomes my painful duty to inform the public in general and perhaps some who are specially interested, concerning the sad havoc death has made in our township (Boggs) during the week ending Sunday, Sept. 13th. On the evening of the 6th of Sept., A. D. 1885, after a long illness from consumption, just as the sun shed its last rays on the mountain tops, Margaret, wife of Edward D. Johnston, breathed her last; aged 63 years and 20 days. She was a fond wife, a devoted mother a good neighbor and a Christian. Her remains were enclosed in an elegant solid walnut casket, richly trimmed with heavy silver plated mountings furnished by Mr. Confer, of Milesburg, and were interred in Messiah's church cemetery, on Tuesday following in the presence of a large concourse of relations and friends, services being conducted by Rev. J. Zeigler.

On the 9th day of Sept., A. D. 1885, Catherine, wife of John Watson, departed this life, aged 68 years, 4 months and 26 days. A large circle of near relatives and friends were assembled on Thursday following to take leave of her remains. It was hard to give up Mother so unexpectedly, as she died suddenly from the effects of cholera morbus. Her remains were enclosed in a beautiful coffin, and were conveyed to Messiah's Church Cemetry for interment. Rev. J. Zeigler conducted the funeral services, Mrs. W. had been a professed Christian for many years.

On the 10th of Sept., A. D. 1885, Daniel Nelson, infant son of Hezekiah and Rebecca Walker, departed this life, aged 1 year, 4 months, and 8 days. His remains were buried in Messiah's Church Cemetery, the funeral being conducted by Rev. J. Zeigler. Safe from disease and death, our little one rests, under the good Shepherd's care.

On the 12th of Sept., A. D. 1885, the spirit of little Barbara Ellen, infant daughter of Miles and Elizabeth Lucas, took its departure to God who gave, having remained only 6 months and 29 days in its tabernacle of clay. Rest sweetly, little babe, thy Saviour cares for thee. The mortal remains were quietly laid away in Fairview Cemetery, Rev. J. Zeigler officiating in the funeral services.

There were two others who died during this time in the same neighborhood; and still another a few days earlier, notice of which has doubtless been given, making in all seven deaths inside of 10 days. Adding to the above the tragic fate of the little grand-child of Reuben Iddings, of Marion Township, of which your readers have doubtless been apprised ere this, we have the list complete for this fatal week. X.

—While in Spring Mills, recently, we visited Mr. Philip S. Dale's furniture establishment, and we there found that gentleman busy manufacturing furniture of all kinds—also fancy wood work of every description. We especially noticed quite a number of handsome extension tables of the very best black walnut wood dried and well seasoned. Mr. Dale is a very courteous and affable gentleman and takes great pleasure in entertaining strangers. We have determined to stop longer with him next time we travel in that direction.

Railroad Extension.

We are informed that the Buffalo Run Railroad Company will extend their contemplated railroad to Washington Furnace Gap, Nittany valley, on guarantee of obtaining a connecting Eastern railroad, outside of Pennsylvania company management. The above guarantee will be obtained.

—Alice Hull, a daughter of Mrs. Mary Hull, of Valentines Forge, died on Thursday last after a brief but severe illness superinduced, we believe, by a bad cold. She was buried on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. She was a bright, attractive young girl whose early death will be sincerely mourned.

All About a Game of Base Ball.

BOALSBURG, Sept. 8th, '85.

MR. EDITOR: As a base ball club, we feel that justice to ourselves would compel us to correct some errors made in articles which appeared in the Watchman and Centre Hall Reporter of last week. If you will allow us through your columns to show the facts concerning the game played by the Centre Hall club and ourselves on Friday, Aug. 28, we will feel grateful to you. The statement that the Boalsburg club refused to play is without foundation, and their team was in the field with a pitcher in the box waiting for a batter, when the umpire called for the batter, and after the required time was up called the batter out. The Centre Hall team then threw up the game, which was at the end of the sixth inning. The score at this point stood 16 to 20 in favor of Centre Hall club, but as they threw up the game, the umpire decided in favor of the Boalsburg team 9 to 0.

As to the scoring being questionable, we would simply say that it was in charge of a gentleman, and one whose veracity can be relied upon. He at one point in the game compared his score with another's who was in the interest of the Centre Hall team, and by so doing found that he had scored two runs for the club that their own man had forgotten to mark. Another feature in this game that was worthy of note is at a certain period in the game the score stood five to nothing in favor of the home club, and could have been kept this if the arm of the Boalsburg pitcher had not given out, and they were then obliged to put a man into the box who never professes to pitch. From the outstart of the game the Centre Hall club showed signs of childishness; from that they objected to a pitcher the boys had obtained to help them out in case of necessity, they themselves having secured the best players they could get and were the challenging party. After the catcher of the Centre Hall club had become disabled from a foul tip their pitcher was supported by a catcher selected from the crowd, who was the means of keeping down the score of the Boalsburg team, he having very few pass balls, considering the extremely wild pitching. We wish to be excused for this public reply and should not have thought of it had it not been for the honor of the man who kept a just and true score of the runs made by both nines.

Philipsburg Squalls.

Perhaps a fer squalls might interest some of your many readers. I take the privilege of sending a few.

J. E. Gearhart, the inventor, of Decatur Twp., has been doing this place for a week or so in canvassing for Rosse's patent rug knitter, and has made it a profitable business. It is the first of the kind we ever saw.

The school children can now be seen wending their way towards the house of knowledge.

Mr. Al. Haupt, formerly clerk at the Potter House, has purchased Mr. Smith's interest in the Opera House restaurant. He is a good fellow and we know he will meet with success. His vacancy in the Potter House is filled by Mr. J. Newton St. Clair, who is a perfect gentleman, and who has gained hosts of friends in this place during his sojourn here.

We think a market house would be a paying institution in this place.

W. T. Bair, who recently returned from the shores of Canada, looks a fresh as a full blooming hollyhock.

Mr. John Hill has torn up his old "rickety" board-walk in front of his three residences on Centre street, and is having it replaced with a substantial brick pavement. This is a move in the right direction on Mr. Hill's part, and his example should lead others to do likewise.

The store room in McCausland's building on Front street has been leased by Sankey & Heimach, and they moved into it the same Tuesday They can now display their boots and shoes to much greater advantage.

A son of Charley Custer fell from a "flying Jennie" on Saturday, taking a part of one ear off, and badly cutting his head. This is another warning boys.

Dr. Alport, who has been in Virginia for some time, recruiting his failing health, returned on Saturday morning, looking by far, better than when he left.

Mr. L. C. Brinton, of the firm of Stern, Brinton & Co., is in Philadelphia.

Miss Mary Evans took her departure last week for Carlisle, where she will enter Dickinson College.

How. Mitchell, the good looking and accomplished local on the Journal, took in the sights of Curwensville on Saturday. He was, as usual, on a business trip. Eh, Howard?

Mrs. Trozier will give another of her concerts in the opera house soon

The "White Star" will appear in the opera house in a short time.

Mr. Geo. Gowland, who died on Wednesday of last week, was interred in the new cemetery on Friday. A large concourse of people followed the remains to their last resting place. He was very popular with all who knew him in this and other places. He was a brother of John Gowland, post-master of this city.

Em. White, who was so badly injured in attempting to jump from mail train on its way to Curwensville, the other day, is, we are sorry to say, in a very dangerous condition at the time of this writing.

"I never could see any sense in Sherman's despatch to Corse to 'hold the fort,'" said old Wamsutta, who was not in the war, as he lay down his paper. "How could the soldiers hold the fort? ### Getting Strong Again.

Fevers and exhausting chronic or acute diseases leave the patient, on his recovery, in a pitiable state of prostration. Then it is that he needs a tonic upon which he can rely, one which, like Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, will accelerate convalescence, and aid the process of digestion. That peerless invigorant compensates, as nothing else will, for depleted stength. After using it a short time the quondam invalid feels in every nerve and muscle that he is getting strong again. Appetite increases, there is a gain in weight, color and fulness return to the cheek, the lack-lustre eyes grow brighter, sleep is unbroken and refreshing. These gratifying experiences are renewed with each returning day, until completely restored in health and vigor, he returns to the avocations which his illness interrupted. Use the Bitters in biliousness, dyspepsia, rheumatism and constipation.

Health—Strength—Long Life

SECURED BY THE USE OF

Crosby's Vitalized Phos-phites;

Nature's own BRAIN AND NERVE FOOD.

This preparation is one of the greatest triumphs of modern chemical science. It is at the same time a remedial agent, and a natural food. It restores exhausted and wasted functions of the brain and nerves, and its daily use, while in health will prevent such exhaustion and waste. This is the only preparation of Phosphorous that has received the approbation of the entire medical profession in this country and in Europe,

Over a MILLION PACKAGES have been prescribed by Physicians in the United States.

SETIHP-SOH PHOS-PHITES

CROSBY'S Vitalized Phosphites

Is a phosphoid or nerve-giving principle extracted from the ox brain and and wheat germ! It does not contain any of the animal substance of the brain, but the phosphoric principles dissolved in boiling alcohol and filtered from the brain substance. It is passed through felt filters, carefully dried and mixed with a little oven-dried flour from the germ of the wheat. Ephraim Cutter, A. M., M. D., in his microscopic analysis, testifies that it contains none of the substance of the ox brain; the active phosphites only are present.

By a careful and elaborate chemical analysis made by Prof. Percy, it was proved to be composed of the vital and nerve-giving principles of animal and vegetable life. The brains of animals and of fish contain an oily, nitrogenous hypo-phosphite, which, when separated from the fleshy part of the brain, is found to be a nerve-sustaining principle of animal life. It is entirely different in its effects from any compound made by chemists in the laboratory; the VITALIZED PHOS-PHITE contains in the highest degree this life-sustaining power; it requires no preparation or change in the stomach, but is in condition to be immediately assimilated into the blood, and ready for appropriation by the brain and nerves; it is essentially a special Brain and Nerve Food. Nature, not art, has prepared it for immediate assimilation.

In many forms of disease the digestion is so imperfect that chemical compounds, or even food, is not digested well enough to be assimilated and changed into blood. This VITALIZED PHOS-PHITE needs no digestion, it is assimilated at once, because it is in the exact condition found in all nervous structure, and is deposited in the nerve structure in the same condition as it was taken from it.

WHY HAVE PHYSICIANS PRESCRIBED OVER HALF A MILLION PACKAGES OF VITALIZED PHOS-PHITES

And found this Brain and Nerve Food indispensible in the treatment of all diseases of debility, and in all mental or nervous disorders?

Because it is not a secret remedy; they know what they are prescribing; the formula is on every package. Because it is one of those perfect preparations that seldom disappoint them.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Feb. 16, 1887.

I have prescribed your VITALIZED PHOS-PHITES extensively for the past seven years. I have found it invaluable in the treatment of debility, in diseases of the nervous system, and as a Tonic where the vital forces were at a low ebb. E. W. FINCH, M. D.

LANDON B. EDWARDS, M. D., Editor of the Virginia Medical Monthly, says: "I have prescribed VITALIZED PHOS-PHITES in several instances, and have also induced friends to use it. Our successes will make us prescribe it frequently."

AM. METALINE CO., 264 Greene St., N. Y.

Some three years ago my friend DR. STEARNS, Superintendent of the Insane Asylum in Hartford, told me how highly he prized VITALIZED PHOS-PHITES, and advised me to use the remedy with my many friends suffering with overwork of the brain. Knowing that I was one of the "overworked," I made the first trial on myself. The change in my health within two months after taking it was so satisfactory that I continue its use from time to time whenever I need it. I have not had a severe headache since I began its use; it was my great trouble before. I have prescribed it for very many of my friends—young, middle-aged and old—and in every case with benefit. You have given me a Brain Food in the only condition in which it can be constantly taken without danger. Many medical men whom I have induced to use it on themselves now use it regularly in their practice. S. GWYNN, M. D.

GARRETTSVILLE, Ohio, June 28, 1882.

F. CROSBY Co.,

Gentlemen: Several years ago when suffering from congestion of the vessels at the base of the brain, resulting in terrible mental depression, Dr. Leonard Sanford, of the Yale Medical College, prescribed for me the VITALIZED PHOS-PHITES. The effect was excellent, beyond all expectation; in two weeks I was a new man. Since my recovery I have recommended it to a number of my professional and other friends suffering from overwork, brain exhaustion, sleeplessness, spinal and nervous troubles and kindred complaints, and in many of these instances I have seen its good results. I have intended for some time to write to you in acknowledgement of the good effects, but I suppose you are overcrowded with letters of this sort.

R. A. TORREY, M. D.

TALLADEGA, Ala.

F. CROSBY Co: I am wonderfully pleased with the effects of your VITALIZED PHOS-PHITES. It is the best remedy I have ever used for Nervous Debility. For the enclosed money, please send me more by this day's mail. PAUL GIST, M. D.

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio.

F. CROSBY: I have prescribed over 700 bottles of your VITALIZED PHOS-PHITE, and know it to be of the greatest value in restoring lost energy, relieving debility, nervousness, and preventing consumption.

Elopement and Theft.

BOSTON, Sept. 10.—Williard F. McIntyre, twenty-two years old, who caused quite a sensation in Chelsea about a year ago by eloping with one of the belles of that city, has again attained considerable notoriety by absconding with $10,000. His wife at the time of the elopement secured a divorce from him. McIntyre then married the girl who eloped with him. He secured a position as clerk in the store of W. Goodrich, one of the largest drain-pipe dealers in this city. In January Mr. Goodrich went to the Azores for his health, leaving his business in charge of his confidential clerk. About a month after his departure the confidential clerk left and McIntyre was placed in charge by Mr. Goodrich's counsel.

As soon as McIntyre assumed managament he began collecting his employer's bills and appropriating the money to his own use. He also ordered large amounts of stock from an Ohio firm and on its arrival in the city sold it for half the actual cost. He very frequently called on Mr. Goodrich's lawyer, who had been given the power to draw money from Mr. Goodrich's bank account, to pay freightage on imaginary cargoes. He secured $10,000 before Mr. Goodrich's counsel learned of his crooked work. The latter notified his client about the way his business was being conducted, and when Mr. Goodrich arrived in this city a week ago he found that McIntyre had left with his wife for parts unknown and had nearly bankrupted him.

A Monument to Commodore Perry

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 10.—The statue of Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry, the naval hero of the last war between Great Britian and the United States, who won the battle of Lake Erie with a force inferior to that of the enemy seventy-two years ago today, was unveiled this morning with appropriate ceremony in the presence of a large number of people. The statue bears on its face the famed words of the hero's dispatch to President Madison, "We have met the enemy and they are ours." After an imposing street procession the statue was unveiled by Mrs. Lafarge and Mrs. Pepper, grand-daughters of Commodore Perry, amid enthusiastic applause. Addresses were made by Hon. William P. Sheffield, Governor Witmore and Mayor Franklin, after which 300 or 400 of the guests were tendered a banquet at the Ocean house, at which addresses were made by Admiral Rodgers, Senator Butler, of South Carolina, and others.

Bold Robbery.

CLEARFIELD, Pa., September 11.—Greer Bell, who resides in the upper end of the county, and who was recently brought into considerable prominence from the fact that he was the first male white child born in Clearfield county, had an experience on Wednesday evening of a thrilling sort. About dusk he and his housekeeper, who were the only inmates of his dwelling, were suddenly siezed, gagged and securely bound by burglars, who proceeded to ransack the house at their leisure. They secured about $130 in money and took their departure. Neither Mr. Bell or the housekeeper could give any information that would lead to the identification of the burglars. From the tracks of large nails in their boots or shoes it is thought they were either railroaders or miners. Beyond the fright and the shock incident thereto, neither Mr. Bell or his housekeeper were much injured.

Bishop L. Wallace Badly Hurt.

CLEARFIELD, Pa., Sept. 11.—Bishop L. Wallace, youngest son of Hon. William A. Wallace, met with a serious accident at an early hour this morning. He had been attending a social gathering at Curwensville and upon his return home fell from the steps in front of his father's office, striking his head against the stone curbing, cutting a frightful gash on the top of his head, extending almost its entire length. At this hour he is yet unconscious and the particulars of the accident cannot be ascertained, it having occurred about 3 o'clock this morning, shortly after the arrival of the train from the south, and nobody having seen him fall. The attending physician hopes for his recovery. Senator Wallace has been telegraphed for and will be at home by the time this is in print.

A Democratic Postmaster.

BATH, Sept. 9.—Among the latest appointments in Pennsylvania by the Democratic Administration is that of Edward Siegfried as postmaster at this place. His success in securing the office is due to his hard work for years as a Democrat, and as an offensive partisan he leads in this region. Though a well-known and influential citizen, his use of the pen is restricted to writing his name illegibly, and as for reading he makes no pretensions. He is practically unable to read or write.

Such is the man who is to succeed Postmaster Bercew, who, though a Republican, has rather kept in the background, and in whose favor nine-tenths of the people of this place would have decided had they been called upon.

A Rifle Ball Crashing Through a Car.

WEST CHESTER, Sept. 8.—As the passenger train leaving Philadelphia at 7.40 was passing a point near Bryn Mawr this morning a rifle ball crashed through one of the car windows and a young man sitting by the window received a severe cut in his face from the broken glass. It is supposed that some careless marksman fired the shot.

Cyclone in Ohio.

WASHINGTON C. H., Ohio, Sept. 9.—The cyclone, which came upon this town last evening at 8 o'clock, almost completely demolished it. Not a single store facing the central square, out of forty, is left intact, and the majority of them are levelled. About two hundred residences are destroyed, and the streets so filled with debris that it is almost impossible to pass. Sheriff Rankin at once ordered out the militia, which took charge and helped to get order out of chaos. All the gas went out when the storm came on, and as the works were destroyed, bonfires had to be built in the streets to give lights for the searchers. The total known to be dead is five, and about fifty are injured. One of the latter of these was the manager of the Telegraph exchange, who was hurled across the street and had one arm and one leg and his collar bone broken.

Some houses were lifted up and carried bodily several hundred feet, and then dashed to the ground with terrific force. The shattered fragments were then whirled in some instances a quarter of a mile. A relief committee is now at work, and all houses not destroyed are thrown open to the homeless. Farmers are coming in by dozens, bringing food and bedding. Every hotel, bank, church and business house in town is ruined. The utmost desolation prevails. People coming in report finding the debris ten miles from town.

The following are the names of those known to be killed at this writing: Mrs. Mollie Jones, Edith Floyd, Ella Forsha, Jennie Forsha, Flora Carr. The following are supposed to be fatally wounded: Herbert Taggart, James Jackson, John C. Venpelt. Fully three hundred persons were hurt—too many to make it practicable to give names. The loss will exceed a million dollars. Council has appointed a relief committee, and the militia are guarding the stores, whose contents are all exposed.

Among the notable buildings destroyed are the Ohio Southern depot, Paul Hartman's block, the Stutzon block, White & Ballard's, Bailey's livery stable, the new Catholic church, Presbyterian church and over a hundred private dwellings are down. The new court house is also badly damaged.

The Chinese Massacre.

CHEYENNE, W. T., September 9.—It is understood that Lieutenant Colonel Chymian, who is in command of two companies of Regulars at Rock Springs, has requested that he be reinforced by additional troops. It is surmised that a preconcerted movement is on hand to rescue the ringleaders of the outbreak now in jail at Green River, who were to have had a preliminary examination yesterday, but did not on account of the unavoidable absence of Judge A. B. Conway, who is expected there in a day or two.

There are no developments at Evanston. The situation is practically unchanged. The miners at Almy are still idle. It is reported that General Manager Calloway, of the Union Pacific railway, has notified Beckwith & Quinn, the Chinese contractors, that they must get the Chinese out of Evanston and Almy immediately. The necessary orders have been given to the troops in case of a threatened attack.

The West Virginia Scourge.

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 8.—The disease reported as ravaging part of Clay County is still running its deadly course. The county court has ordered the appointment of a special board of health, to take action for the prevention of the spread of any infectious, contagious or epidemic disease. They are to make a house-to-house inspection, and institute quarantine against all those persons and houses which they have reason to believe infected with such disease; see that the mail carriers of the county are prevented from stopping at houses and offices infected with such disease, and, if necessary, they shall have any mail route discontinued until such disease is abated; supply proper disinfectants and medicine where patients are unable to procure them and oversee the burial of any dying of such disease, so as to prevent it from spreading thereby. There are eight additional deaths in two days, and the disease shows no signs of abatement.

Swept by a Cyclone.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 8.—Shortly before midnight the report reached here that a destructive cyclone had visited a portion of the western part of the State and had destroyed nearly all of Washington Court House, in Fayette county. The cyclone struck the town about 8.30 in the evening, and lasted but ten minutes, in that time demolishing three churches, the Telephone Exchange, three bridges, four depots and over a hundred business and dwelling houses. The dead bodies of two unknown persons have been found and it is believed several others have been killed or seriously injured. The loss to property cannot be ascertained, but it will reach several hundred thousand dollars. All telegraph and telephone wires are down and it is impossible to get the particulars to-night.

They Found the Indians.

TUCSON, A. T., Sept. 10.—Advices from Odosura say that on the 30th ult. the Mexican regulars were following up the track of the Apaches. Three of the soldiers strayed away and stumbled upon an Apache rendezvous near Sierra Blance. Two of the soldiers were killed, but the other escaped. The Mexican troops heard firing and went to the spot, but the Indians evacuated the region. It is estimated that there were sixty Indians in the band. It is said by the Mexicans that there are 150 Apaches in Sonora. Colonel DeGuerro has 300 regulars in pursuit of them. Other detachments of Mexican troops are moving slowly after the hostiles.

Glass-Workers' Strike Ended.

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 10.—The flint glass-workers of the seven idle factories opposite this city met in convention in Belaire yesterday and accepted the terms of compromise previously drawn up by a committee of manufacturers and working men, with the exception of one slight amendment, in which the manufacturers will concur. This virtually ends the strike, which has lasted for nine months, and will put about 1200 men to work. Working-men and manufacturers are both jubilant over the prospective resumption.

A Sadly Broken Family.

ROME, Ga., Sept. 8.—Captain Coulter, for many years a pilot on the Coosa River, took his four children, in age from 4 to 14 years, in a bateau Sunday afternoon, and started down the Coosa to meet his wife and eldest daughter, who were coming up on a steamer eight miles below. The girl, aged 14, and her youngest sister fell out of the boat. The other children in their fright clung to their father in such a way that he could not rescue those in the water, and they drowned almost within reach, after having risen twice. It is feared that the mother will become insane.

Failed Because of the Railroad Deal.

HUNTINGDON, Sept. 9.—Fred. Snare, an extensive manufacturer of building brick and fire clay, has made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors. Snare had a contract with the South Pensyivania Railroad to furnish 1,500,000 of bricks for the tunnels near Burnt Cabins, in Fulton county, and Fannettsburg, in Franklin county. The uncertainty of realizing on his contract on account of the transfer of the railroad caused his creditors to push him. His liabilities are $50,000 and his assets $22,000.

A Dynamite Outrage.

LIMA, O., Sept. 10.—On Tuesday night an attempt was made to blow up with dynamite the hotel, saloon and residence of Neal & Binwell, in the village of Westminster, not far from this place. The saloon had recently been opened, and its presence was hotly opposed by some of the inhabitants. This opposition is credited with inspiring the effort. The whole front of the first story was blown away, and the interior wrecked. Neal and family, occupying an upper room, were thrown from their beds and bruised.

A Reduction in Wages.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Sept. 9.—Patterson Llewellyn, who operates the Big Mountain colliery, and the Reading coal and iron company, who operate Burnside colliery, to-day reduced the wages fifty cents per yard. The miners have struck. They charge that the operators are evading the timber cutting law. Mine Inspector Ryan says he is powerless to act in the matter. There is every prospect of a large strike. There is considerable dissatisfaction among the miners in the regions.

Postponed Until Next Month.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 11.—Walter H. Lennox Maxwell, the presumed murderer of Preller, was taken into the court of criminal correction this afternoon and by agreement between counsel the case was continued until October 19, before which time the grand jury will have an opportunity to take the matter up.

Brief Telegrams.

HAZLETON, Pa., Sept. 9.—John C. Morgan, a resident of Eckley, a small mining town near here, while walking from this place to his home last night, fell into a mine hole about forty feet deep. He managed to crawl out and was found this morning by some passers by. He cannot survive his injuries.

IRWIN, Pa., Sept. 9.—While engaged in threshing at the barn of Peter Whitehead, this morning, Jacob Buzzard fell from the mow, alighting on his head. His skull was crushed and death ensued in five minutes. Mr. Buzzard was an old man, and owned the farm adjoining that of Mr. Whitehead's.

OLEAN, N. Y., Sept. 9.—The strike on the Lackawanna and Pittsburg railroad still continues and no trains are running. The men were offered part of their back pay, but refused it. The company is six months in arrears to its employes.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 9.—The case of Walter H. Lennox Maxwell, charged with the murder of C. A. Preller at the Southern hotel, was called to-day and continued until Friday afternoon at the request of Maxwell's counsel.

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 9.—Samuel Wilson, while umpiring a game of ball at Danville, Ga., to-day was run into by a player and so severely injured internally that he will probably die to-night.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 9.—The state prohibition convention to-day nominated H. Clay Bascom, of Troy, for governor, by acclamation.

Mistaken for Consumption.

We have known persons to doctor for years for consumption, all to no effect. Though they had a cough, felt pains in the lungs, were depressed, weak, with many other symptoms tending to that disease, yet there was no structural unsoundness of the lungs. These symptoms were all the painful offsprings of a torpid and diseased liver. We could fill a volume with testimonials of thousands so affected, who were permanently cured by taking Simmons Liver Regulator.

SUPPOSE you go to the saloon-keeper and offer to license him to sell your son whiskey for $500 per year. O, you don't believe in that! you don't want it sold to your boy! Then be honest, and don't vote to have it sold to somebody else's boy.

Never neglect a constipated condition of the bowels, or serious results surely follow, such as piles, impure blood and many chronic complaints. Burdock Blood Bitters is the remedy.

In August, 1878, C. A. Wood & Co. commenced the manufacture, in Philadelphia, of the now well-known Philadelphia Singer Sewing Machines. At first they only made ten machines a week. Their business has steadily increased, until now they are probably the largest manufacturers of this style of machine in the United States. They do business on a liberal and just basis. They sell a three-drawer, drop leaf and cover machine for the low price of twenty dollars, including all the extra attachments, and warrant them for three years. They offer to send one to any responsible man or woman, to be tested in their own house two weeks before they pay one cent. This is certainly a fair proposition. They have found this way of doing business more satisfactory than to do as other companies do who charge forty to fifty dollars for machines, and pay agents twenty dollars apiece to sell them. We advise all in want of a machine to send for circular and testimonials. Address C. A. Wood & Co., North Tenth St., Phila., Pa. s8 3t

Under Distressing Circumstances.

Friend—Your husband's death was very sudden, was it not, Mrs. Brown?"

Mrs. Brown—"Yes; poor John was called without a moment's warning."

Friend (with gentle sympathy)—Death is at all times sad and painful, my dear Mrs. Brown, but under such circumstances it becomes doubly so—

Mrs. Brown—Yes; poor John died on the 20th and was buried the day following. You can appreciate how little time I had to prepare a mourning costume. Ah, me! I suppose I must have looked like a fright.

Young Featherly (at a late hour): Really, Miss Clara, it's very annoying, but I had it on the tip of my tongue but a moment ago. I was about to say—to say—er—singular, but it seems to have escaped me." Miss Clara (coming to his assistance)—Possibly you were about to say "Good-night," Mr. Featherly.

How young old people look who have never been seriously sick, and who never worry and fret. How old young people look who fret and stew and suffer pain—all at once. But we can't altogether help our disposition, and we will sometimes get out of sorts in spite of all our caution. Then we need the best, the simplest and safest medicine known, which is Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. Purifies the blood and renews vitality in old and young.

We recently saw an account of the different devices used by actors to keep from smiling on the stage," writes an editor. One never-failing device is for the actor to catch sight of the manager stepping out the back door with all the box-office receipts.

IT IS AMAZING that any human being should continue to suffer from biliousness, nervous headache, indigestion, or general weakness, when it is as notorious as that the sun is the source of light that VINEGAR BITTERS inevitably cures these complaints. This medicine is sold everywhere, taken everywhere, and cures everywhere. Reader, it will cure you.

IT would shock Miles Standish and his early pious fellow-pilgrims to know that the American people in 1885 were betting and gambling on the speed of a racing yacht named "The Puritan,"

His Slippery Glass Eye.

"The Squire," says the author of the "Hoosier Schoolmaster," "wore one glass eye and a wig. The glass eye was constantly slipping out of focus, and the wig turning around sidewise on his head whenever he addressed the people of the Flat Creek District." Sad spectacle. Parker's Hair Balsam preserves and promotes the growth of the natural hair. It also restores the natural color to hair which has faded or become gray. Clean, elegant, beneficial, highly perfumed.

A FAT woman weighing 600 pounds died in Philadelphia last week. Her waist measured 62½ inches, from shoulder to shoulder 3 feet, and hips 4 feet in circumference. Her husband weighed 130 pounds.

Quinsy troubled me for twenty years. Since I started using Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil have not had an attack. The Oil cures sore throat at once. Mrs. Letta Conrad, Standish, Mich., Oct. 24, '83.

"They didn't pick that stuff quick enough, did they mama?" asked a little boy, as he passed a grocery where several cakes of Limberger were taking a breathing spell outside.

SENATOR ALEXANDER.

Admiring Friends Remember that He was 49 years Old on Thursday and Present to Him an Elegant Silk Hat.

A very pleasant occurrence took place Thursday afternoon in the office of Hon. C. T. Alexander. He was called on by C. M. Bower and J. C. Harper, Esqs., Miles Walker, Sheriff of the county, and Mr. H. D. Landis, who, in behalf of themselves and others, announced to him the fact that on that day, the 10th of September A. D. 1885, (the anniversary of Perry's victory), he was 49 years old, (a fact forgotten by the Senator himself), and presented to him an elegant silk hat. The speech of presentation was made by C. M. Bower, Esq., who also handed him the following letter, expressive of the kind regards of his friends:

BELLEFONTE, Sept. 10, 1885.

HON. C. T. ALEXANDER,

Dear Sir: A few of your friends and admirers have just learned that, on this day, you have reached the forty-ninth milestone of your journey through life.

We have concluded to remind you, that, although your shadow is still "falling toward the West" and your sun has almost touched meridian, yet we know you have not yet reached the zenith of your course as a member of the bar of Centre county, nor have you ceased to command the respect and admiration of those who know you, or the affection of those who know you well.

Our little token to-day is a silk hat, but, if every little knot of your friends to whom you have done a kindness or who bear you good wishes, were to express their sentiment toward you to-day in the shape of silk hats, you would have hats enough to supply all your namesakes from Alexander the Great down to the present generation.

The Senator was, of course, surprised and expressed his thanks to the gentlemen of the committee who who had presented him with this token of their esteem, and said that he had forgotten the fact that he came into this world forty-nine years ago, unannounced, but that this occurrence reminded him of the fact that it was on the 10th of September that Commodore Perry won his famous victory over the British, on Lake Erie, in 1813. The records of the War department show that his father, James Alexander, as an enlisted soldier, participated in that battle. He said that he didn't know that his having been born on the anniversary of that battle had anything to do with his present standing among the people who this day have expressed their kind regards; but certain it was that to those who had so kindly remembered him he was grateful, and that as brothers in the legal profession, and as business and social friends he never could forget this token of their friendship and esteem. Little tokens of friendship like this are the more to be appreciated because they always come direct from the heart. One year from to day, if I live, will be my "semi-centennial." I hope my friends will live through two semi-centennials, but according to the course of nature I can scarcely hope to be at all their funerals.

The School Board and the Colored Children.

The undersigned desire to correct he errors which the Watchman of ast Friday made, in reference to the admission of the colored children into our Public Schools. Complaint is made that the Board has not seen fit to furnish the town papers, for publication, the minutes of its proceedings in this matter. The truth is, there was no action taken by the board. They had none to take. All the minutes show, and they show exactly what was done, is "that a committee of colored citizens consisting of Wm. Mills, Charles Garner, Jackson McDonald and Rev. J. J. Norris came before the board and complained that the colored children did not enjoy equal facilities for receiving instruction with the white children."

The board, anxious as they were to keep up the colored school, had nothing to do but submit. Mr. Norris, in his remarks, said in substance "if their children were not admitted to the schools in the Public School building they would have to appeal to the law."

The Act of Assembly entitled a "further supplement to the school laws of this Commonwealth and to abolish all distinction of race or color in the public schools thereof and approved June 8, 1881," first section, provides "That hereafter, it shall be unlawful for any school director, superintendent or teacher to make any distinction whatever, on account of, or by reason of the race or color of any pupil or scholar who may be in attendance upon, or seek admission to, any public or common school, maintained wholly or in part under the school laws of this Commonwealth." The second section of the act repeals the 24th section of the act of May 8th, 1854, which provided for separate colored schools.

Since the passage of the act of 1881 in some boroughs in this State where a separate school for colored children was maintained, the directors refused to admit the colored children into the other public schools. The colored people appealed to the courts and under this law the board was compelled by a mandamus to admit the colored children to the schools.

The committee of colored citizens made no demand that a few of their advanced scholars should be admitted to our higher graded schools.

With the law before the board there was only one thing it can do, if the colored people asked that their children, as they did, shall be admitted to the schools in the public building, and that was to admit them. Ever since the passage of the act of 1881 our colored citizens have been anxious to send their children to the schools with the white children. The board, in order to keep them from so doing, gave them the very best teachers that could be secured for the place, employing in one or two instances graduates of Oberlin College. In order that such men might be employed the salary of the teacher was raised.

Owing to the crowded condition of the schools, the board, in common with every other citizen, regrets the course taken by our colored people. They have the best located, lighted and ventilated school room in town, and it is supplied the same maps and apparatus that are in the other public school. Mr. Hoffer, Mr. Harris and Mr. Long were not at the meeting.

The School Question.

BELLEFONTE, Sept. 12, 1885.

EDITOR DAILY NEWS: The undersigned committee desire to set the citizens of this borough right in regard to our appeal to the Bellefonte school board, whereas it seems that they have misunderstood our design in asking that our children have the same advantages in school rights with other children of the borough. In the first place, we did not ask or make any demands that our children be placed in the public school with white children. Neither was it the design of Rev. J. J. Norris in his remarks, nor the committee in full, but on account of the number of pupils in our school we claim that one teacher cannot do justice to all the pupils having the studies required, whereas we have 43 actual scholars. Another reason why we made the appeal is that many of the studies that are being taught in the other schools of this borough have not been taught in the school on the hill. We do not want to force our children into the public schools with the white children, although the law of Pennsylvania knows no colored school; but we do ask and demand that our children be taught all the studies that are taught in the public schools of this borough, and each scholar have the proper attention that he should have. There were times last winter that the younger scholars of our school did not have the attention that they should have had on account of the teacher, though an excellent one, not having the time to do justice to them all.

Now, we desire that our children who are competent of being advanced to the higher branches of public school studies be advanced. This is all we ask or desire.

In reply to a question or two asked by the Watchman, we believe that the colored citizens are entitled to all rights that the white citizens have under the laws of Pennsylvania, and once in a while one of them pays a little school tax.

The Encampment at Clearfield.

Ex-Gov. Curtin and Commander Curtin were prominent figures in the encampment at Clearfield last week and a report of the gathering in the Altoona Tribune refers to the part they took as follows:

Colonel Walter Barrett, in behalf of Larimer Post, welcomed the visiting posts and then introduced ex-Gov. Curtin, who spoke to an immense crowd in the park. He spoke of the part taken by the 467,000 Pennsylvania soldiers in the suppression of the rebellion, in addition to the 80,000 who went to the front when the soil of their native State was invaded. He refered to the 217 flags carried by the Pennsylvania boys, all of which came back but two. Gov. Curtin referred feelingly to the death of Gen. Grant; condemned his burial in a field in New York, and said: "If congress does its duty, and I am pledged to see that it does, his body will be taken from among the brokers' shops and saloons of Wall street and buried at the Soldiers's Home in Washington, along with the brave men he led to battle."

—Mr. M. White, a young man and a resident of Philipsburg, met with a very ugly accident on Wednesday while on his way from his town to Clearfield where he purposed attending the Grand Army encampment. When in the vicinity of the Moshannon Branch Junction he took off his hat to wave at some person whom he saw from the car in which he was a passenger, when the headgear fell from his hand to the ground. In attempting to recover it he jumped from the train and first alighting on his feet lost his footing and was thrown to the ties. His left eye was badly cut and the side of his face suffered severe bruises. A physician was summoned and the wounded man was taken to a nearby house, where the injuries were attended to. It is thought that the wounds are not dangerous.—Altoona Tribune.

—It is well for those who are planting fruit trees to read with care the following: An important decision, of interest to all who reside in cities, towns or villages, was made in Lebanon county courts some time since by Judge Henderson. A man was indicted for assault and battery on a neighbor because he claimed the fruit on the limbs of the tree overspreading the prosecutor's lot. Judge Henderson said that the owner of the land is the owner of it from his line upward as far as he desires to make claim to it. This being the law the prosecutor had the right to the fruit on the branches extending over his lot. He might even have sawed them off. This decision is important at this particular time, and is generally misunderstood by the people.

—Word was received in this city this (Wednesday) morning of the death of Geo. W. Gowland, son of Matthew and Jane Gowland, formerly of this city, but now of Philipsburg, Centre county. The cause of deceased's death was inflammation of the lungs. Mr. Gowland was a promising young man of about twenty-five years of age, and had only lately embarked in the machinist business. He was at one time a law student with Hon. John B. Linn, of Bellefonte, but was compelled to relinquish his studies on account of his father's failing health. He was well known in this city, and his many friends will be pained to learn of his death. His funeral will take place on Friday afternoon.—Williamsport Sun and Banner.

—Valentines, Store Company Limited, it is said, will only occupy one store room in the future instead of two.—Centre Democrat.

The store now occupies three or four rooms, including those in the rear, and the firm has no intention of contracting the space at all. Where the Centre Democrat obtained its information is a mystery, and it has no foundation in fact. The Democratic administration has made times pretty hard, but the firm of Valentines Store Co., Lim., will try to stand it as at present.

—We think it would be a good idea to have some electric light upon our streets between the hours of 7 and 8 o'clock in the evening. Wednesday night the streets were thronged with pedestrians at about half past seven, and it was as dark as Egypt. This summer, when it did not get dark until about 9 o'clock, the light was turned on at 8 o'clock sharp, and blazed away, but now it is not turned on until an hour after dark.

"I never patronize Patent Medicines." Don't you? Why not? You patronize "patent" articles of a hundred varieties—why not patent medicines. "Because they are often worthless." True, but not always. Frequently they are the very best in the world, representing the widest experience. At least we know that Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is one of these, and for all troubles of the blood, liver and urinary organs it stands on its merits, and not on advertising.

Statement of the American, National and United States and Canada Express Companies, Troy, N. Y.

The strength of Rome lay not in her multitude, nor in her grain-laden fleets. These were elements of strength, but her never-failing resources lay in the self-control and discipline of Roman soldiers. Discipline—it is the very soul to all the wonderful meaning possessed by the word "veteran." Mr. Benedict, of Troy is a veteran in the express business. "Thirty-three years," he said to your reporter, "I've stood at this desk." It is the discipline of years of experience which gives him the position he holds in the trust and esteem of these three great corporations. "We have a business of $500,000 a year, and I've been absent from this office hardly a month in all that time, although I must confess that many times I've worked here when suffering great pain, for I have been troubled all my life with biliousness and dyspepsia. My system had become so reduced and weak that I had no appetite, and my digestion wholly disordered. I've tried various remedies, but almost two years ago I happened to hit upon Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY. After using only one bottle or so I began to feel stronger in every way. The great difficulty has been with my digestion, but this seems to regulate it perfectly. I have, sir, great faith in Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY. I have bought and given a great deal of it to the poor around here; those, you know, who have no money to buy medicine of any kind, for there are a great many troubled with bilious diseases and suffer on without aid. I always keep FAVORITE REMEDY in the house. I consider it the best medicine for the blood in the market. Well, I must attend to this matter for the western part of the city. Say, you tell the Doctor I am coming down to Rondout to see him in August. I want to know him." I left the veteran, still at his post, rejoicing in health and grateful to Dr. Kennedy. 17 36 1y

AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION proposed to the citizens of this Commonwealth for their approval or rejection by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Published by order of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, in pursuance to the last section of Article XVIII of the Constitution.

Joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, that the following is proposed as an amendment of to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in accordance with the provisions of the eighteenth article thereof.

AMENDMENT.

That section five of article five of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, which reads as follows: "Whenever a county shall contain forty thousand inhabitants it shall constitute a separate judicial district, and shall elect one judge learned in the law; and the General Assembly shall provide for additional judges, as the business of the said district may require. Counties containing a population less than is sufficient to constitute separate districts shall be formed into convenient single districts, or, if necessary, may be attached to contiguous districts, as the General Assembly may provide. The office of associate judge, not learned in the law, is abolished in counties forming separate districts; but the several associate judges in office when this constitution shall be adopted shall serve for their unexpired terms," be and the same is hereby amended, so as to read as follows: Whenever a county shall contain sixty thousand inhabitants it may constitute a separate judicial district, and may elect one judge learned in the law; and the General Assembly shall provide for additional judges, as the business of said district may require. Counties not forming separate districts shall be formed into convenient single districts, as the General Assembly may provide. The office of associate judge, not learned in the law, is abolished in counties forming separate districts and having more than one law judge; every other county shall elect two associate judges, who shall not be required to be learned in the law; but the several associate judges in office, when this amendment shall be adopted, shall serve for their unexpired term.

A true copy of the Joint Resolution.

17 30 3m W. S. STENGER, Secretary of the Commonwealth.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that an application will be made by Williamson Howell, Charles C. Adams, William McMullen, Edward C. Platt and David B. Davidson, on the 23d day of September, 1885, at 12 M., to the Governor of the State of Pennsylvania, under the Act of Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, entitled "An act to provide for the incorporation and regulation of certain corporations," approved April 29, 1874, and the supplements thereto, for the charter of an intended corporation to be called the "Postal Telegraph and Cable Company Number Three." The charter and object is to construct, maintain and operate lines of telegraph, commencing in Lackawanna county, at or near Carbondale, and running thence through the counties of Lackawanna, Luzerne, Columbia, Montour, Northumberland and Dauphin to a point at or near Harrisburg in said last named county, and for these purposes to have, possess and enjoy all the rights, benefits and privileges of the said Act of Assembly and its supplements.

Readers of Hawthorne's "House of Seven Gables" will recall the pathos with which poor Clifford Pyncheon, who had been unjustly imprisoned since his early manhood, said, after his release: "My life is gone, and where is my happiness? Oh! give me my happiness," but that could be done only in part, as gleams of warm sunshine occasionally fall across the gloom of a New England autumn day.

In a letter to Messrs. Hiscox & Co., Mr. L. H. Titus, of Pennington, N. J., says: "I have suffered untold misery from childhood from chronic disease of the bowels and diarrhœa, accompanied by great pain. I sought relief at the hands of physicians of every school and used every patent and domestic remedy under the sun. I have at last found in PARKER'S TONIC a complete specific, preventive and cure. As your invaluable medicine, which did for me what nothing else could do, is entitled to the credit of my getting back my happy days, I cheerfully and gratefully acknowledge the fact."

Mr. E. S. Wells, who needs no introduction to the people of Jersey City, adds: "The testimonial of Mr. Titus is genuine and voluntary; only he does not adequately portray the suffering he has endured for many years. He is my brother-in-law, and I know the case well. He is now perfectly free from his old troubles, and enjoys health and life, ascribing it all to PARKER'S TONIC."

340 Acres of Good Farm Land,

More or less, 160 of which are cleared, the balance covered with a good growth of Chestnut and Oak Timber, bounded and described as follows: North and east by lands of Shorb, Stewart & Co., south by lands of C. Miller, and west by lands of —— Ellenberger. There is on the farm a good TWO STORY HOUSE, containing ten rooms; a good Bank Barn and all other necessary outbuildings. There is a good well of water near the house, and a nice orchard on the place. The Lewisburg, Centre and Spruce Creek Railroad passes through one side of the place. The land is all underlaid with a bed of good Iron Ore.

The farm of 160 acres will be sold, if the purchaser so desires, together with as much of the timber land, more or less, as may be wanted or will be otherwise divided to suit buyers, or sold all together. In case the farm is divided and all of the timber is not wanted the balance will be sold in lots to suit. For further particulars address the undersigned.

Terms made known on day of sale.

Terms, $2.00 per annum in Advance

Local Department.

—Barnum's show will be in Altoona on the 6th prox.

—The warm wave is here, and we shout with much patriotism, "Long may she wave."

—The Snow Shoe passenger train was wrecked last night and did not arrive until 9 o'clock.

—The "drummer boy of Millheim" was at the picnic. As a drummer he is a noisy and artistic success.

—Have you bought a ticket for the Orchestra entertainment next Friday evening? It will be magnificent.

—The funeral of Bessie, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dunkle, occurred at 3 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon.

—There are two bright-blossomed hydrangea bushes in the yard in front of Mr. C. .T Gerberich's residence.

—We are informed that Bishop L. Wallace, son of Senator Wm. A. Wallace, of Clearfield, who met with an accident by a fall one night last week, died Monday morning.

—The arrangements for the Orchestra concert, in Humes' Hall, next Friday evening, are progressing satisfactorily and those who fail to hear the concert will be sorry.

—Mr. Jerry Fasic has completed a new frame house on Reynolds Avenue, which will be a very comfortable home. Mr. Wm. Musser is building a house on the same thoroughfare.

—On Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Geo. P. Bible were heard from in Philadelphia. They are having a grand time and announce that they may be home about next Friday evening on Saturday morning.

—Mr Thomas Tracey, puddler at the Nail Works, was so unfortunate on Saturday as to fall and break his leg. Dr. Hayes set the broken limb. Mr. Tracey is an excellent workman and we regret to hear of his misfortune.

—The Curwensville Review comes to us printed on a sort of coffee colored paper. Please don't use paper of that hue any more. Anthing of a coffee color is unpleasantly suggestive, especially if it is from Clearfield county.

—There will be music in Bellefonte next Saturday, the Philipsburg Amateur brass band expecting to visit the town for the purpose of rendering its best selections. The band is winning an excellent reputation and will be accorded a hearty welcome.

—Miss Isabella Rankin, the bright and accomplished daughter of Mrs. Sarah Rankin, of Boalsburg, will be married on Wednesday, Sept. 23, at 12 o'clock noon, to Mr. Edward P. McIntyre, of Altoona. The event will occur at the home of the bride's mother in Boalsburg.

—Miss Sallie Mitchell, daughter of Mr. Joseph E. Mitchell, of State College, died on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock of typhoid fever. The funeral services will occur on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Deceased was an estimable young lady whose death will cause much sorrow to her friends.

—The officers elected by the Centre County Veteran Club for the ensuing year are the following: President, Gen. Jas. A. Beaver, of Bellefonte; 1st vice president, Lieut. Geo M. Boal, of Potter twp; 2d vice president, Capt. Waldo C. VanValin, of Unionville; Secretary, Major H. H. Benner, Bellefonte; Treasurer, Capt. Austin Curtin, of Boggs township.

—Miss May Wooden, of Houtzdale, died last Monday night at 10 o'clock after a brief illness. She was a niece of Treasurer Chas. Smith, of this place, and Mr. Smith and family are now attending the funeral, which occured yesterday. Miss May was an attractive young lady, aged 17 years, and was well known in this place. We deeply sympathise with the relatives and friends in their loss.

—About the handsomest church carpet in Bellefonte is the one that covers the floor of the Presbyterian church. As most of the attendants of that church, during prayer, merely bend forward to the back of the seat ahead of them, a favorable opportunity is afforded to contemplate the beauties of this carpet. The two shades of scarlet or red are rich, and the only improvement we could suggest in the pattern is that the green running through it should be that of an actual vine instead of merely a line which seems to represent nothing. But then the fact that we were not there when the original designer planned the pattern accounts for the deficiency.

The Reunion.

It was after 11 o'clock when Gen. Beaver, president of the Veteran Club of Centre County called that organization together on Saturday morning on the Fair ground. The minutes of the last meeting were read and also the treasurer's report, which showed $245 in the treasury. Lemont was decided upon as the place of meeting next year on the Saturday nearest the 17th day of September. The address of welcome delivered by D. F. Fortney, Esq., was as follows:

Comrades and Veterans of Centre County.

It is with pleasure that I bid you welcome to our midst. I need not tell you that you are welcome in every community. The service you rendered, the suffering you endured was for the good of all mankind. In all our great country, the people, by common consent, agree that they owe to you a great debt, and they take every opportunity to express their obligations and gratitude.

It is a little over twenty years since the people of this town gave their first reception to the bronzed, scared and war-torn veterans. A great multitude assembled, not only to see and greet, and to spread before you the very best things the county could produce, and labor, pains and care make, but to testify their high appreciation of the service rendered by you that a government "of the people, by the people and for the people" might not perish from the face of the earth.

During these twenty years a large number who stood in your ranks have made answer to the last roll call and paid the great debt of nature.

Since our last meeting the old commander, who fought and won from Fort Donaldson to Vicksburg and from the Wilderness to Appomattox, has gone down to the narrow valley of the shadow of death, with the stately and majestic tread of a giant, a whole Nation sympathizing in his suffering and the civilized world mourning his death.

Long ago he said "Let us have peace." He was permitted to see it. With his dying voice he said: "I have witnessed since my sickness just what I have wished to see since the War—harmony and good feeling between the sections." Rejoicing in the present, he prophesied of the future in words of glowing hope: "We may now well look forward to a perpetual peace at home and a National strength that will secure us against any foreign complication." Be it so.

There is not a man before me who honestly bears the name of veteran; nay more than that, there is not a man who is worthy to bear the name of an American citizen who will not rejoice in the fact that peace is fully and absolutely established within all our borders.

It is a matter of great rejoicing, veterans, that so many of you have lived, and so long enjoyed the blessings and protection of the Government you endured, suffered and sacrificed so much to preserve.

Your are older at this time of life than you would be had you not spent three or four years in the army. The seven days fight, Antietum, Chancellorsville, Gettysburg and the Wilderness have told of the severity of the service you rendered.

In the exercises, in the mutual greeting, in the living over the old camp life, and telling the stories of war to-day we hope you will to the fullest extent enjoy yourselves. And in again bidding you welcome, we trust many years of life and health may be given to you in which you shall enjoy the blessings of the Government you freely served and did and suffered so much to preserve to us, our children and the world for all time to come.

The dinner was served immediately after the business meeting. It was one of the most elegant cold lunches that has ever been spread on such an occasion. All the veterans and their friends were served. Several ladies—Mrs. Chas. Eckenroth, Mrs. John Noll, Mrs. Hannah Hamilton, Mrs. S. H. Williams and Mrs. H. A. Williams—added their hospitality to the occasion by serving about fifty persons from the contents of their baskets.

The committee of ladies who presided so efficiently at the table deserve much praise as they labored hard and displayed great taste and judgment. They were Mrs. Cyrus Alexander, Mrs. Amos Mullen, Mrs. William Lyon, Mrs. H. A. Williams, Mrs. G. A. Bayard, Mrs. S. H. Williams, Mrs. James Sheridan, Miss Sallie Ammerman, Mrs. Thomas Ammerman, Mrs. A. V. Miller, Mrs. William DeSilva, Mrs. Robert Laird, Mrs. Joseph Bryant, Mrs. Geo. H. Kincely. The Veteran Club feel that they are greatly indebted to these ladies for their services. Almost everybody who was requested to do so responded generously with provisions for the dinner, and the Club also extends to them very hearty thanks.

In the afternoon public exercises were held, Rev. Wm. Laurie opening them with prayer. Addresses were delivered by Rev. Mr. Woodcock Rev. M. K. Foster, J. L. Spangler, Esq., Col. D. H. Hastings, Major Armor, of Erie, and Gov. A. G. Curtin. After the last speech Company B., N. G., gave an excellent military drill on the ground, firing by company and detail. The firing was done with much precision. The day was a pleasant one and the occasion throughout enjoyable.

A Word on the Schools.

The committee of colored citizens in their communication in the News of Saturday complain that their children do not receive instruction in the same branches of study, &c., that is taught to the other children. In this they are all wrong. Everything taught to the white children is taught in their school, except perhaps the course in the High school, and I know the board has always said to the colored people, that at any time any of the pupils in the colored school could go through the proper examination they will be cheerfully admitted to that school. It is all nonsense to say that with an average of not more than thirty pupils a competent teacher cannot get through with the recitation. The very thing the colored committee contend for in their communication will of course destroy their school, and they know it. To make a graded school of 30 or 40 pupils is an impossibility. To take two or three colored pupils for this grade and for the other grade and so on through the grades in the public building will leave nobody for the colored school.

Every branch, to wit, Reading, Writing, Arithmetic, Grammar, Orthography is taught in the colored school. These and nothing more are taught to the other children of the Borough until they reach the High school. If the graduates of Oberlin College who were employed in the colored school could not teach these ordinary branches successfully I should like to know what they could teach?

The great difficulty with the colored school, and I speak from close observation, is that the attendance of children is irregular—no study or application at home by the colored children and no interest taken in the school by the colored people themselves.

The colored citizens are always around when a teacher is to be chosen. Some want this one and some another, and little difference who is chosen, the unsuccessful party does everything but support the teacher.

DIRECTOR.

Sunday Services.

Dr. J. H. Rhone conducted an interesting service in Y. M. C. A. hall Sunday afternoon on the subject, "Christ, the Rock."

Rev. Dr. Hamill, of Lemont, preached a sermon in the Presbyterian church Sunday morning from Zechariah 6:13—"He shall be a priest upon His throne." It was an able exposition of the office of Christ as a Priest, concerning which there are very vague ideas prevalent. Rev. Mr. Laurie preached in the evening an able sermon from the 1st verse of the 23d Psalm.

Rev. Chas. T. Steck, on Sunday morning, preached from Matt. 20:12—"These last have wrought but one hour, and thou hast made them equal unto us, which have borne the burden and heat of the day." It is said to have been the most thoughtful and logical sermon which he has yet treated his congregation to. His evening discourse was from Matt. 11: 3 and 4.

Rev. M. K. Foster, on Sunday morning, preached from Exodus 35:29, descriptive of the liberality of the people in bringing gifts for the tabernacle. His evening discourse was from Proverbs 2: 3, 4 and 5.

—This is the time of year when the Supervisor of the country roads gets in his work by filling the road with loose stone, under the guise of "making roads." Why it is that as soon as a man is elected to the office of Supervisor he is afflicted with the mania none can tell. Ordinarily, citizens who do the driving over the roads are of the opinion that such material ought not to be used on the highways. Not so, however, with the Supervisor. He is firm in his own belief that a rolling stone can gather no moss, and to prevent them from becoming moss-grown puts them where they will be kept rolling. But, out of his obstinate ignorance, comes work for the army of carriage and wagon makers, who silently invoke blessings upon the head of the County Supervisor of roads.

—The school board on Monday night elected J. Calvin Green, barber, to be teacher of the school on the hill where the colored children are accustomed to attend. Any pupil of this school who can pass an examination for admission to the High school will be admitted.

Death's Doings.

The death of Mr. George A. Gowland, at Philipsburg, was mentioned in the Daily News of Thursday. The following feeling obituary notice is from the pen of a friend in this place:

The announcement of the death of George A. Gowland, of Philipsburg, is received with deep regret by his friends in Bellefonte. He died at the residence of his father, Matthew Gowland, at 3 a. m., Wednesday, 9th inst., from inflammation of the lungs. It comes, too, so unexpectedly, as when last here he was the picture of health, buoyant with well grounded hope of future usefulness. It seems he has been ill some twelve days, probably not regarded as dangerously so, as his personal friends here were not aware of it.

Limited by his means, George took a partial course at Lehigh University and had so prepared himself that in May, 1882, he passed an excellent preliminary examination before the committee of the Bar of Centre county, and on the 16th of that month entered his name in the Protbonitary office and commenced the study of law with John B. Linn. His eyesight failing, he was compelled to abandon study, and cheerfully took a place in his father's machine shop and foundry at Philipsburg. When his father sold out his business plant to A. J. Graham & Co., George became their foreman and manager, and was conducting the business successfully. His death just at this time of his life is one of those dispensations of God which only His grace can enable the mourning friends to bear, knowing that He doeth all things well. He was a member of the Episcopal church and while he resided in Bellefonte was a regular attendant of his church and Sabbath school, and his deportment was such as to gain the lasting esteem of many friends here.

On Wednesday evening Mr. Freeman Gettle, a young man aged about 21, of Pleasant Gap, sank into the sleep which knows no earthly waking. It appears that he had been in the West, where he became ill, and was brought home to die. Funeral on Friday.

The death of Mrs. Hess, widow of John Hess, of Haines township, occurred suddenly on Friday, the 4th. We are informed that she fell to the ground while in the yard and soon expired.

Daniel Breon, an aged citizen of Gregg township, departed this life on Monday morning, Sept. 7.

Mrs. Hugh Glenn, of Martha, a sister of Mr. Wm. Clark, who lives at the Union Cemetery in this place, died very suddenly on Thursday evening of apoplexy. Dr. Hayes, of this place, was called to attend her, but was unable to render her any aid.

—All the merchants are commenting favorably on the management of the freight business on the Lemont railroad during the past two weeks. Freight now comes through from Philadelphia more expeditiously even than express over the old line. Order goods from Philadelphia one day and they arrive here the next. This is attributed to Mr. E. B. Westfall's management and as such it is considered quite a "windfall" for Bellefonte. Of course, this is so, because the grade of the road all the way from Centre Hall is a west-fall.

—James A. McClain, Esq., one of Bellefonte's esteemed citizens and soundest Democrats, came hither on Saturday evening, for the first time in two years, and tarried over Sunday at the hospitable home of his uncle, Mr. Frank McClain, of this city. Mr. McClain is now filling his second term as Register of Wills and Clerk of the Orphans' Court of Centre county, and is as popular an officer as he is a pleasant gentleman. He will depart for home on Johnstown Express this morning.—Altoona Times.

—We hear of two homes in which there is sorrow, caused by the death of infant members of the flock. Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Foster are mourning the death of an infant child, and Mr. and Mrs. John Dunkle are plunged in sorrow by a similar death in their family. But none of these parents need mourn as those without hope, for death is only the messenger sent to admit us to a better home, and to some he comes earlier than to others.

—Among the young ladies who favored the REPUBLICAN office with their delightful presence on Saturday afternoon were Misses Minnie Winkleman and Mary Aston, of Nittany Hall, Miss Gertie Solt, of Zion, and Miss Blanche Straub, of Bellefonte. Such an invasion of youth, beauty and intelligence does not fall to an editor's lot every year.

—The Williamsport Sun and Banner has been indulging in rather nauseating sort of literature during the past few days.

Personal Pencilings.

Francis Speer sports a handsome cane.

Mr. James McClain spent Sunday in Altoona.

Mr. James Gordon went to Clearfield on Wednesday.

Mr. J. J. Lingle was in Williamsport on Wednesday.

Walter Bayard looks through spectacles once in a while.

Editor Kurtz, of Centre Hall, was in Bellefonte last Thursday.

Miss Anna M. Waite, of Altoona, is a guest of Mrs. Gross in this place.

Ed. Chambers, Esq., was surveying Monday in the vicinity of Snow Shoe.

Col. Victor E. Piolett will attend the Patrons of Husbandry picnic today.

Mr. and Mrs. John Horlacher came home Friday evening from their wedding trip.

T. R. Budinger, of Snow Shoe, promenaded the streets of Bellefonte on Saturday.

Mr. Samuel Reynolds, of Lancaster, spent Sunday with his brother, Major Wm. F. Reynolds.

Rev. Fischer and family have returned from Somerset county to their home in Centre Hall.

Mrs. J G. Larimer, of this place, is visiting at the residence of Robert Larimer in Philipsburg.

Clevan Dinges, the Centre Hall merchant, was in town on Monday although we did not see him.

Mr. Arthur Pearson and family departed on Monday for Toronto, Canada, expecting to be away about three weeks.

Messrs Clem Dale, Esq., Jno. T. Johnston and ex-Sheriff D Z. Kline were in Howard on Friday, returning at 5:20.

Miss Fannie Goldsmith, of this place, is visiting in Williamsport, the guest of her friends, the Misses Strasburger.

Walter W. Bayard, the druggist, spent Sunday at Filmore. Just why he didn't go to Philipsburg of course we can't explain.

Miss Sallie Riley and Miss Bella Rankin, of Boalsburg, were visiting friends in Bellefonte Monday, having arrived on the noon train.

Will Conley, of Centre Hall, is off on a trip to Philadelphia and other parts of the State, making the journey in a private conveyance.

Miss Rose Sternberg and Miss Celia Armor are visiting friends in Harrisburg and Lebanon, expecting to remain away about two weeks.

—It is said that bangs are going out of style. Don't change this style too immediately, please, for the report will be terrific if all the bangs go off at once.

Miss Lottie Bridport, of near Philadelphia, who has been spending the summer at C. P. Stoneroad's, Milesburg, departed for her home Monday morning.

We observe that Mr. "Sol" of the Bee Hive, has returned home from New York where he has been for a few days laying in a new supply for their "Hive."

Mr. Isaac Kline, President of the Window Glass Workers Association of the United States, was in Bellefonte on Thurrday of last week transacting business of importance.

Mr. Eugene Chandler, a brother of Miss Laura Chandler, who visited at the residence of Ed. Chambers, Esq., in June, is now in Bellefonte, a guest of his friend, C. P. Hewes, Esq.

Rev. J. F. De Long with his wife and interesting family came home on Wednesday evening. Mr. DeLong has been away from home about two weeks and his family have been spending the summer with relatives at a distance.

Mr. Will E. Gray is now pursuing his legal studies at Albany Law School, which is one of the oldest and best institutions of its kind in the United States. He is a faithful student, naturally bright, and will graduate with high honors.

Mr. Theodore A. Boak and his accomplished wife just returned from a ten days' visit to Cape May. We are pleased to learn that Mrs. Boak was greatly benefited by her sojourn at the sea shore. They are now at their pleasant home in Snow Shoe.

Mr. H. W. Fields, of Altoona, is at present in Bellefonte and expects to spend about a month here giving instructions in what is known as Rice's short system of teaching music. He is a pleasant gentleman and we predict that he will be very successful.

Miss Grace Finney and Miss Cora Brooks, of Williamsport, the two charming young ladies who have been visiting at Hon. P. Gray Meek's, for about a week, returned to their home in Williamsport on Saturday. Their stay here was very pleasant and they return with memories of many happy hours spent among friends.

Personal Pencilings.

Wm. P. Duncan, of Philipsburg, has been in town this week.

Mrs. Vandeventer, of Orbison, is a guest at the residence of ex-Gov. A G. Curtin.

Miss Carrie Orvis, daughter of Judge Orvis, departed for Philadelphia this morning to attend school.

Mr. and Mrs. Al. Garman returned on Monday evening from Jersey Shore, where they spent two weeks.

Mr. Bell, of Indiana, Pa., a representative of a Philadelphia publishing house, was in Bellefonte Tuesday.

Mr. Branson Gilbart, after spending a couple of weeks in the city of Philadelphia and at the sea shore, returned on Tuesday evening.

Miss May Barrett, of the Telephone Exchange, is at home again after a week spent in breathing in the rarefied ozone on the mountain top.

Mr. John Anderson and Mr. David Glenn spent only one day at the Clearfield encampment, returning home Wednesday night of last week.

Mr. Murray, of Pittsburg, who we believe was cashier of the First National Bank in this place several years ago, is paying his annual summer visit to his friends here.

Mr. I. D. Garman departed yesterday morning on a trip to Harrisburg, Coatsville and Philadelphia. The visit to Harrisburg will be particularly pleasant just now, as the Centennial of the city is being celebrated.

Mr. James Wolfenden, of Lock Haven, was in Bellefonte on Tuesday and journeyed through Nittany Valley that afternoon. He is a practical mechanic, makes a profound study of the subjects of finance and tariff and sandwiches in a few thoughts on railroads.

The Misses Blanchard, daughters of Evan Blanchard, Esq., and Miss Hoy, daughter of ex-Judge Adam Hoy, departed for Philadelphia Wednesday to attend a school located near that city. Mr. John Blanchard, also returned to school to resume his legal studies.

Mr. Will Speer, the young gentleman who sports the blue and red uniform belonging to the Western Union messengers, went to Curwensville Monday night, where he will spend a few days slinging lightning for the benefit of the Curwensvillians, and he'll do it lively, too.

Mrs. R. M. Smith and Miss Effie Meredith, of Tyrone, came to Bellefonte on Wednesday and were guests at the residence of Mr. Woodring until Saturday evening, when they returned home. Mrs. Smith is a sister of Miss Etta Mattern, the efficient operator in the Telephone Exchange.

Mr. E. M. Speer, the former very efficient manager of the Western Union Telegraph office in Bellefonte, departed on Saturday night from Council Bluffs, Iowa, for Norton, Norton Co., Kansas. He writes that although the weather has been disagreeable ever since he has been in Council Bluffs, nevertheless he is pleased with the country. We are glad that Ed. finds his most congenial places of location in such strong Republican communities as Pennsylvania, Iowa and Kansas. Eh, Ed.?

Faith.

"Come to me, come to me, beautiful faith,
Sweeten life's cup that is bitter as death;
Smile on my soul in this long night of years,
Calm the wild gush of the fountain of tears.

"Come to me, come to me, bright one at last,
Brush from my heart strings the mists of the past;
Tempted and tantalized, grieve I for thee:
Light of the wanderer, shine thou on me.

"Faith, thou hast come to me, welcome thou art;
Answer of God to this poor pleading heart:
Heart that has plead to be trustful and strong
Cheerful through suffering, patient through wrong.

"Faith, thou art whispering comfort to me;
Right, thou art saying, the victor will be.
Clouds have their lining of silver and gold,
Earth's darkest mysteries heaven will unfold.

"God worketh silently, strangely, but well;
Wrongs which men cover the angels will tell;
Human hands crush, but celestial ones heal;
Think not the thorn crowned no pity can feel

"God o'er his suppliants watches and yearns,
In his pure censer their prayer incense burns
Heaven holds the scales, and the future and part
Weighed by Omniscience will balance at last.

Sooner or later will blessings descend
Into the heart serving God to the end.
Can not Omnipotence turn night to day?
All things are possible—labor and pray.

"Faint not! the Crucified reigns over all;
Out of God's sight not a sparrow can fall.
Oh, thou hast blessed me most beautiful faith,
Stay with me, stay with me, even till death!
